ARAB FORCE RAIDS LEBANON

DISTRICT I BALLOTS . . .

Bohn Is Named President - Elect

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

John Bohn, a Seward High School social studies teacher, Thursday was chosen president-elect of District I of the Nebraska State Education Association at teachers' convention here.

Bohn, who began his teaching career in Loup City in 1957, defeated Martin Bausch, a Fairbury industrial arts instructor.

Lincoln Southeast High School principal Dr. Welsey Lauterbach will succeed Frank Mills, Southeast vocal teacher, as president of the district for 1970. Lauterbach was selected last year.

Other officers elected for next year were Mrs. F. Jeanne Ratzlaff of Henderson, secretary, and Don Schnier of Tri-County, treasurer.

Walter Harris of Crete was named to the executive committee and J. Richard Nagele of Lincoln was elected to represent the district on the NSEA board of directors.

Elected to the elementary planning committee were Richard Eisenhauer of Norris, Mrs. Dorothy Federle of Lincoln and Mrs. Wanda Lancaster of Lincoln. Dennis Frederick of Lincoln and Mrs. Lelah Rediger were chosen for the junior high planning commission.

A total of 3,686 persons registered for the two-day convention here. The number was considerably smaller than the total of 4,818 registered last year.

Some 2,613 of the district's estimated 3,800 teachers registered. The total included 876 NSEA members from other districts, 112 guests, 30 students and 26 retired teachers.

This was the first year that the Lincoln teachers were not paid for the two convention days and not required to attend.

300 Guerrillas Strike With Syrian Backing

. . . IN RETALIATION FOR CRACKDOWN

By The Associated Press

Arab guerrillas from Syria struck hard into neighboring Lebanon Thursday in retaliation for a Lebanese army crackdown against semi-underground commando forces organized to harass Israel.

The guerrillas hit three border posts and kidnapped 24 frontier guards, military sources reported.

In other Middle East developments:

—Arab mortar fire Thursday night raked five Israeli farm settlements in the Jordan valley in the heaviest shelling across the Jordan River in more than a year, Israeli sources said. Spokesmen said one Israeli soldier was killed and two were wounded in the resulting duel, which raged at times along a 20-mile front.

—In Cairo, a military spokesman said an Israeli jet was downed Thursday by Egyptian interceptor craft when "a number of enemy planes attempted to bomb our positions in the northern sector of the Suez Canal."

Apparently carried out with Syrian government encouragement or acquiescence, the raid by a force of about 300 irregulars was bigger than any launched by the guerrillas against Israel since the six-day war of June 1967.

Al Fatah, the Arab guerrilla organization, claimed responsibility for the three-headed attack and later exchanged the abducted guards for the body of a slain guerrilla.

Al Fatah Calls It Warning

Today's operations were only a warning to the Lebanese authorities, Al Fatah said in a communique Thursday from its headquarters in Damascus, the Syrian capital. "The Palestine revolution demonstrates its ability to take any measure it deems fit to defend itself and escalate its operations."

Fearing further trouble from guerrillas and the more than 200,000 Palestinian refugees in Lebanon, the government ordered an indefinite curfew on Beirut, Tripoli and Sidon starting at 6 a.m. Friday. Leftist leaders have called for a general strike to protest the army's crackdown on the guerrillas.

Reports from Damascus said Libya was trying to mediate the dispute between the guerrillas, who want to use Lebanon as a base for strikes against Israel, and the Lebanese government, which fears inevitable Israeli retaliation.

Nasser Told Of Talks

Lebanese President Charles Helou said in a message to Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser that his government was engaged in a dialogue with guerrilla leaders. But informants said the guerrillas insisting on a guarantee that they be allowed to operate freely in Lebanon before they consent to negotiate on hard issues.

Helou also sent a message to Syrian President Noureddin Atassi, expressing surprise at what he said was a concentration of troops and tanks across the Syrian border.

Helou deplored the guerrilla attacks against the border posts.

Ready To Help Guerrillas

He said that despite differences Lebanon was still prepared to support the guerrillas against Israel "with all available resources."

The predawn guerrilla attacks from Syria came as Lebanese army troops were trying to flush out guerrilla bands holed up along the country's southern tip, which juts like a thick finger down along Israel's northern frontier.

The guerrilla assault against the Lebanese border posts underscored Syria's role as the key foe of Lebanon's attempt to steer a militarily neutral course in the Arab-Israeli conflict. The raids could not have been accomplished without the knowledge of the Syrian government, which closed its borders with Lebanon Tuesday night and threatened "stronger measures" if the Lebanese army did not leave the guerrillas alone.

Higher Achievement Expectation Urged

"This generation of children has been allowed to develop without anyone demanding some achievement from them," Dr. Emmett M. Kenney of Omaha told elementary educators at the Nebraska State Education Association convention Thursday.

Kenney, an instructor at the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, declared that "decreasing expectations cripples a person."

A mature person cannot exist without being required to achieve, yet some people believe that children should not be expected to achieve, he said.

Redouble Efforts

Kenney called for schools to "redouble their efforts" in the area of achievement expectation for children.

He noted that too many parents will not let their children experience the same things that caused growth and development for themselves. The child of the self-made man is the "most likely" to drop out of school because the youth is usually told that he is not achieving success in the same way that the father did.

Kenney told the general session for elementary teachers that achievement is one of the things that help make a child feel secure.

Be Consistent

Other methods that he suggested were to be consistent in the way that affection is shown to children, to accept the strengths and weaknesses of a child, to show empathy with a student, to help a child feel important and to assert authority.

Addressing a meeting of secondary educators later, Kenney said that all generations have felt that they, as parents, had problems with the teenage group.

And all generations of teenagers have felt that this was the age of anxiety for them, he said.

Difference

"But the difference today is that young people can reach the age of 18 or 20 without ever having been an important, contributing part of the family or without having done any of the things that will prepare them for independence," Kinney declared.

At another session, English instructors were told, teachers must assume that the students, too, have knowledge in order to build education into a "reciprocal, exploratory relationship." English instructors were told Thursday.

Dr. Roger Abrahams, professor of English and anthropology at the University of Texas, said the reason that English instructors have difficulty selling their product is that they haven't made language and literature "relevant."

Get In Groove

He said if to make something relevant the teacher must find out what the so-called "short-lived words" such as "groovy," "square," and "tuned in" or "turned on" mean, then the teacher should do so.

Dr. Abrahams emphasized that in teaching literature, for example, the instruction must get the students to feel what underlies the work of art or "Get them (students) to groove with the work of art."

He said as he understood the object of education, the teacher must get the students to think about the judgments on which life rests.

Brought To Surface

What one knows and acts upon must be brought to the surface where it can be fully understood and acted upon, he said.

Dr. Abrahams further stated that the old sense of order must be broken down just as the great writers looked to disorder and dreams in writing.

Several new teaching methods were introduced to educators from a 13-county area in numerous divisional meetings. Crete school personnel and Lincoln teachers presented programs on teaching math and social studies, respectively, with the inquiry method of study.

Different Methods

Ed Harris told secondary art instructors about teaching pottery and experimental films. Use of a computer in math classes was discussed by Royce Holtgrewe. School nurses learned about the use of hypnotism in medical work.

Health educators were given some recommendations about establishing a sex education program in their schools by an Overland Park, Kan., elementary principal, French Hey.

Hey warned the educators that the John Birchers and others who have been strenuously opposing sex education in the schools are using the issue as an inroad to attack the entire school system.

'Bombs' Hit Library At Hiram Scott

Scottsbluff (AP) — Two fire bombs were hurled through a plate glass window of the library complex at Hiram Scott College Thursday, causing a $15,00 fire.

The Scotts Bluff County Sheriff's office, the State Patrol, and a deputy state fire marshal and Scottsbluff police conducted an investigation which was still in progress late Thursday.

There was no immediate indication of what might have caused the fire bombing.

Dean Patrick Hand said the fire caused damage to periodicals in the library and he estimated the loss at more than $15,000.

The bombing took place sometime between 4 and 6 a.m. The blaze was discovered by a custodian shortly after 6 a.m.

Numbers Reported

Lisbon (AP) — Replying to critics, Justice Minister Mario Almeida Costa said political prisoners held in Portugal's jails total 87 men and five women. Oppositionists had claimed there were several hundred.

TWO SERGEANTS ON STAND

M.Sgt. William E. Higdon, left, confers with Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge Thursday. The two sergeants appeared before the Senate investigations subcommittee looking into reports of kickbacks and payoffs in the operation of servicemen's clubs. Both invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions. See Story Page 2.)

Study Set On New Site For Sewage Treatment

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf has signed an executive order authorizing an engineering consultant firm to study the feasibility of locating a new sewage treatment facility near Salt Creek northeast of Interstate 80.

The study, which also will include possible modifications of the Theresa St. sewage treatment plant and costs for all facilities and alternatives studies, will be made by the firm of Black & Veatch if Kansas City at a cost of $6,000...

Also in the study will be an estimate of the future population of the city and probable quantities of waste water to be treated by the year 2020.

The study, initially requested by the City Water Advisory Board, will be done as a supplemental report to a "Report on Sewerage Facilities for Lincoln" submitted to the city earlier this year.

The supplemental report is to be delivered to the city within six months, according to terms of the contract.

The original report had proposed a new plant at Stevens Creek.

But Dr. Mark Hammer, chairman of the Water Advisory Board, suggested that consideration be given to locating a new plant further northeast of the city.

Sewage in the Havelock area is presently flowing into a lagoon, a stop gap measure.

City Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker said that wastes from the soybean refinery process at the Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. plant are flowing into the lagoon because the Theresa St. plant is overloaded. A lagoon is not designed to handle such wastes, he noted.

Soviet Expresses Hope For Peace To Bonn's Brandt

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin congratulated West Germany's new Chancellor Willy Brandt and expressed hope for better relations between the Soviet Union and West Germany, a Bonn government spokesman said Thursday.

Kosygin said better relations between the two nations would "doubtless have a great meaning for the relaxation of tension in Europe and for a peaceful future for both West Germany and other European countries."

Brandt, elected chancellor by parliament Tuesday, replied in a telegram to Kosygin that future peace in Europe and improved relations would occur "if both sides are willing to pursue positive results."

Cut In Oil Depletion Allowance To 23% OKd

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Thursday to cut the oil depletion allowance to 23% — a cut about half as large as the reduction approved by the House.

The 27.5% depletion allowance — a target of tax reformers since it went into the law in 1926 —has been used by many oil companies to cut their taxes far below the rates paid by other corporations and has allowed some oil firms to escape federal taxation entirely.

The House-passed tax reform bill cut the allowance to 20%, a step that will increase taxes on the oil and natural gas industry by $400 million a year. The Senate committee's decision would raise the industry's taxes by $155 million.

Small Independents

The committee approved a change in tax laws so that small independent oil companies — those with gross income of $3 million or less — will not feel the increased taxes.

It also voted to retain depletion allowances at their current rate for a long list of other minerals, ranging from gold and uranium to gravel and sand.

On the key vote, the committee tied, 8 to 8, on a motion to retain the allowance at 27.5%. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who has voted on both sides of the issue in the past, was absent but Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said his "impression is that his vote would be no." The tie vote defeated the motion.

On the next vote, the committee went 12 to 3 for a 23% rate. (Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., voted with the majority, AP reported. On the 8-8 tie vote, Curtis voted for keeping the 27.5% rate.)

The depletion allowance permits oil and natural gas companies to subtract their business expenses from their income, then deduct 27.5% of the remainder. They compute their taxes on the 62.5% which is left.

Limited To 50%

However, the allowance is limited to a ceiling of 50% of their taxable income. This provision means that many companies do not enjoy the full extent of the 27.5% and enjoy an effective depletion allowance closer to 20%.

The committee voted to raise the ceiling to 65% for the independents with income of $3 million or less. The effect will be to allow them to take as much advantage of the allowance as they now do.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, convinced the committee to create a new depletion allowance ranging from 10 to 23% for chlorine, sodium, sulfate, magnesium, potassium, calcium, bromine, boron, silicon, lithium and other minerals extracted from the Great Salt Lake.

New York Times News Summary

Armed Force Massing On Lebanese Border

(C) New York Times News Service

Beirut — Large numbers of armed men, backed by tanks and armored cars, were reported by official Lebanese sources to be massing along the Syrian border with Lebanon in the area where commandos raided Lebanese frontier posts early in the day. The raids were a reprisal for a Lebanese crackdown on Palestinian guerrillas operating from Lebanese teritory. (More on Page 1.)

Jordan Breaks Agreement

Jerusalem — One Israeli was killed and at least two others injured when Jordanian artillery bombarded Israeli settlements south of the Sea of Galilee. The attack, which smashed windows and sent hundreds of settlers into underground shelters, broke the informal agreement by which the Israelis allowed the Ghor Canal in Jordan to be repaired as long as the settlements were left alone. (More on Page 1.)

3 Red Sailors Arrested

Moscow — Usually reliable Russian sources said three Soviet naval officers who had planned to circulate documents urging liberalization and democratization of Soviet society had been arrested last June for alleged anti-Soviet activities. The three reported had been attached to an atomic submarine.

Lodge Clams Up

Paris — Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the American delegation at the Paris peace talks on Vietnam, listened quietly all morning to speeches by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives. Then, after a lunch recess and a speech by a Saigon representative, he rose to say he would not deliver his prepared speech because "invective" by the other side made serious negotiation "impossible." Beckett Wins Nobel Prize

Stockholm — The Swedish Academy awarded the 1969 Nobel Prize in literature to Samuel Beckett, who has been acclaimed for his plays and novels of loneliness, despair and human degradation. (More on Page 2.)

Monosodium Glutamate Harmful

Washington — Experiments in which amounts of monosodium glutamate, a food additive, not much greater than the amounts in baby food had produced brain damage to parts of the brains of infant mice have convinced a Washington University scientist that the substance should be removed from baby food, the scientist said.

Housing Bill Passed

Washington — A $4.9-billion housing bill that is expected to radically revise urban renewal programs in the nation's cities was passed by the House. (More on Page 16.)

Wooldridge Invokes Fifth

Washington — Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, the first sergeant major of the Army, told a Senate investigating committee his name and address, then invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about his involvement in abuses at Army servicemen's clubs. (More on Page 2.)

Oil Depletion Cut Voted

Washington — The Senate Finance Committee, considering a tax reform bill, voted to lower the depletion allowance on income from oil and natural gas from the present 27½% to 23%. (More on Page 1.)

Cable TV To Be Freed

New York — In a decision to be announced Friday, the Federal Communications Commission plans to give cable television companies complete freedom to run commercials, every type of programming no w provided by every type of programming now provided by movies. The vote to remove all restrictions on program origination was reported to be 6 to 1.

Lodge Clams Up At Talks

Paris (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge took the unprecedented step Thursday of refusing to speak at the Vietnam peace talks.

"You still show no desire to engage in genuine negotiations," the U.S. ambassador told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong envoys. "Under these circumstances I see no point in delivering the statement I have prepared for today."

Lodge also said he held back his statement because he wanted to dramatize the other side's "unilateral demands" and "vituperative language."

U.S. Won't Quit Talks

In Washington, the State Department voiced its support for Lodge's decision but it stressed that his action did not signal U.S. intent to quit the talks.

"There is no desire by the United States to break off the talks," press officer Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen.

"But we have been concerned and annoyed and frustrated that there has not been a more serious attempt for substantive negotiations by the other side," he said.

Lodge's Decision

The State Department spokesman said Lodge was acting "within his instructions" in not speaking, although the specific decision was made by the ambassador on the spot.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief delegate of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government, retorted that Lodge's action showed he was seeking "to elude serious negotiations . . . and shows the obstinate attitude of the American government in pursuit of its policy of aggression in South Vietnam."

A North Vietnamese spokesman said the move "proves the bad faith of the Nixon administration."

Vietnamese Approves

The South Vietnamese delegation spokesman said it was an "appropriate response" to the "escalade of verbal violence" by the other side.

Speaking to newsmen after the meeting, Lodge said that no particular statement made by the other side provoked his action.

"It was a whole long series that's been going back for weeks and months and today was more of the same," he said.

Red Attitude Negative

"There is obviously not much sense sitting there trying to respond when they are saying the same old intransigent and vituperative things. I hope our action today may call attention generally to the completely negative attitude which has consistently characterized the other side, and that there may be progress in the future."

ART LINKLETTER, right . . . meets with President at White House.

Linkletter In Antidrug Plea

Washington (AP) — With President Nixon and congressional leaders as an audience, television personality Art Linkletter made an impassioned plea Thursday for the government to step up and broaden its activities to combat drug abuse.

Linkletter, whose daughter committed suicide two weeks ago, urged an educational program aimed at both parents and youngsters.

He suggested strict surveillance of the drug industry to see that manufacturers more closely control the distribution of their products to keep them out of the hands of youngsters.

Linkletter described the death of his 20-year-old daughter, Diane, youngest of five, because, he said, he wanted to alert parents and legislators on "how this drug society has poisoned the minds and will continue to dry the minds of our young people."

Diane leaped to her death Oct. 4 in what the performer said was "a depressed state from bad LSD trips."

"In this world of frustration, children turn to the only thing they have known since they were born," he said. "They are used to seeing people pop chemicals into their mouths for everything from relieving tensions and curing headaches to losing weight.

"They have to understand that drugs are bad not as a moralistic no-no but as a scientific fact," he said.

Four Invoke 5th Amendment More Than 100 Times In Day

Washington (AP) — Four Army sergeants invoked the 5th Amendment more than 100 times Thursday as Senate investigators sought to connect them with irregularities possibly running into millions of dollars.

One of them, Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge, was promptly stripped of his rating as a command sergeant major.

Wooldridge is a former sergeant major of the Army and until his refusal Thursday to answer questions he had been command sergeant major at the White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico.

Pay, Title Unaffected

This action by the Army does not affect his pay or title as a sergeant major and he will remain at White Sands in a different assignment.

Joining Wooldridge in refusing to testify before the Senate's permanent investigating subcommittee were M. Sgt. William Higdon and former Sgts. Narvaez Hatcher of Pensacola, Fla., and Seymour Lazar, Anaheim, Calif.

The questions they refused on advice of counsel to answer were concerned mainly with what one witness called systematic thefts from noncommissioned officers' clubs in Germany, Vietnam and the United States, and funneling of money into Swiss, German Hong Kong and U.S. bank accounts.

Many Long Ago

In response to a question at a Pentagon briefing, a Defense Department spokes- said it hasn't been decided whether to court-martial Wooldridge and Higdon. But some officers noted that many of the actions reported in the hearing occurred so long ago that the statute of limitations bars courts-martial for these alleged offenses.

At the Thursday hearing canceled checks and affidavits were introduced and the four men were questioned about companies, use of aliases, kickbacks and other reported irregularities. But beyond giving their names and addresses the sergeants refused to provide any information, saying that to do so might incriminate them.

GIs Engage North Viets In Two Running Battles

World News

Saigon (AP) — U.S. infantrymen screening infiltration routes northwest of Saigon engaged North Vietnamese soldiers in two running battles Thursday.

Field officers said it appeared that North Vietnamese army units which have been holed up in Cambodia are moving back into South Vietnam, possibly positioning themselves for the kickoff of a winter-spring offensive next month.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command said American casualties for the past week remained near the three-year low, with 78 Americans killed in action. It was the fourth straight week that fewer than 100 Americans died on the battlefield.

South Vietnamese combat deaths exceeded the U.S. total for the 23rd consecutive week, with 301 government troops killed.

A U.S. spokesman also said that a GI captured 4½ months ago by the North Vietnamese made his way to an allied landing zone Monday.

The soldier, Pfc. Jesse B. Harris Jr., 20, Port Chester, N.Y., was captured June 8 while his company of the 101st Airborne Division was on a sweep south of Da Nang. It was not clear whether Harris escaped or was released, the spokesman said.

Harris was evacuated to the Army hospital at Long Binh, where he was reported in good condition. He is expected to remain there for about 10 days before returning to the United States.

In the two battles northwest of Saigon, U.S. infantrymen killed 43 North Vietnamese soldiers and suffered one casualty.

Seventeen enemy soldiers were killed in a six-hour fight when their company was caught in flooded rice paddies just a mile from the Cambodian border.

A 25th Infantry Division spokesman said one of the division's companies was on a routine reconnaissance in force operation some 40 miles northwest of Saigon when the point men spotted an enemy company plunging eastward through the mud.

The U.S. infantrymen opened fire and called in artillery, helicopter gunships and dive bombers as the North Vietnamese soldiers scattered.

One American was killed and one helicopter was hit by enemy groundfire during sporadic action that continued until midafternoon. The helicopter made it safely back to base.

The other 26 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in a string of skirmishes with soldiers of the U.S. 25th Division patrolling through the Citadel and the Ho Bo Woods some 32 miles northwest of Saigon. Both areas have long been staging areas for North Vietnamese units.

Cosmonauts Not Able To Reciprocate

Anaheim, Calif. (UPI) — Two touring Russian cosmonauts said Thursday they declined an invitation to visit Cape Kennedy because they could not reciprocate and invite American spacemen to their launching pad.

Maj. Gen. Georgiv Beregovoy and scientist cosmonaut Konstantin Feoktistov made the admissions at a news conference at Houston's Manned Space Center before flying here where they accepted an invitation to visit Disneyland.

The cosmonauts landed at nearby El Toro Marine Corps to see, among other things, exhibits at the sixth annual meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics at the Anaheim convention center.

BECKETT WINS NOBEL LITERARY PRIZE

Stockholm (UPI) — Dublin-born Samuel Beckett, creator of the "theater of the absurd" with the play "Waiting for Godot," was awarded the 1969 Nobel Prize for literature Thursday.

He was the second Irishman to win the world's most highly regarded writing award. William Butler Yeats won it in 1923.

The Swedish Academy acclaimed Beckett "for his writing in new forms for the novel and drama in which the destitution of modern man acquires its elevation." The academy also cited Beckett for his poems.

Dr. Karl Ragnar Gierow, permanent secretary of the Swedish Academy, said Beckett made a name for himself "in the space of three years" through five works. He cited the novel "Molloy" (1951), its sequel "Malone Meurt" (Malone Dies), the same year, the play "En Attendent Godot" (Waiting for Godot) and two novels in 1953, "L'Innommable" (The Unnameable) and "Watt."

Teachers Gather At Meets

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's teachers shifted from the classroom to the lecture hall Thursday to open the annual district conventions of the Nebraska State Education Association.

As usual the teachers were exposed to well known personalities brought to the state to infuse new ideas and new information into the state's educational stream.

Bailey In Omaha

In Omaha renowned criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey, who skips around the globe in his own Lear jet to maintain offices in Boston, Los Angeles and Frankfort Germany, urged teachers to stop portraying criminal justice as a process in which right always triumphs.

The 36-year-old attorney, best known for his defense of Dr. Sam Sheppard, Cleveland accused of slaying his wife said more attention should be given to "accuracy" than to fairness.

F. LEE BAILEY

DR. ROBERT WEAVER

"I have never seen a trial where witnesses testified and everyone told the truth," he said. "Yet when the case is appealed the higher court is limited to questions involving whether the trial was conducted fairly.

"There is no appeal of any kind to what a jury does," Bailey said. "It is irrelevant as to whether justice has been done."

Across the state at Sidney, some 1,600 teachers attending the District VI convention heard Rod McLeish, a peripatetic reporter who earlier this week returned from Paris where he covered the Vietnam peace talks.

Serious Situation'

The situation in Vietnam is far too serious to be left to either the hawks or the doves in this country, he said.

North Vietnam is not a Chinese satellite he said, describing Chairman Mao as a "geriatric nut who runs China."

McLeish, who was recruited for the NSEA circuit after Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and Washington columnist Jack Anderson had to cancel out, said the tension between North Vietnam and the Viet Cong is growing daily, and he is unable to completely understand why. He also conceded he doesn't know how this nation can get out of Vietnam.

"The world has never seen a nation with greater power or more honest motivation than we, but we cannot do everything," he said.

In Kearney where Districts 4 and 5 held a joint convention for more than 3,000 teachers, Dr. Robert Weaver, former U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and now head of the Bernard M. Baruch College of Business at the City University of New York, discussed the urban crisis.

'Must Meet Challenge'

"We are off to a bad start with inflation, zooming, the price of land and level of taxation, but we are capable of meeting the challenge and must do it," said Weaver, who was the first Negro to reach cabinet rank in the United States.

Weaver advocated what he termed the "Big C and three B's." The Big C means "commitment," he said, and the three B's stand for "brains, bucks and bodies."

Weaver said unless present trends change the United States will double its population in the next four decades.

"The sheer requirement of volume should give us pause," he said. "How will we maintain hope in all elements of the population?"

Seven of 10 Americans live in urban areas, he said, primarily because agricultural progress has been so effective that we can feed our population with fewer workers.

"A nation that in 1961 could decree to put a man on the moon in '70 and do it by '69 can also solve the problems of cities if they have the commitment, knowledge and will," he said.

Antelope, Dawson Sites Entered In Historical Listing

Washington (AP) — Two Nebraska sites, Neligh Mill in Antelope County and Midway Stage Station in Dawson County, have been entered in the National Historical Register of Historic Places Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., announced.

Martin said the Interior Department's National Park Service told him the sites were nominated by a state officer who had been designated by Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann.

Martin said the national register is "a roll call of the tangible reminders of the history of the United States."

Entry of the two Nebraska sites, he said, "is indicative of the national recognition given for the state's significance in American history."

White Discounts G.I. Ammo Plant Closing Rumors

Grand Island (AP) — Maj. Gen. Frank G. White, commanding general of the U.S Army Munitions Command has discounted rumors that the Cornhusker Army Ammunition Plant faces a closedown in the near future.

White told a news conference he could see no closedown in the immediate future, although "there is no way of knowing for sure because it depends on national policy. If they stop bombing, it would shut down the making of bombs."

The Grand Island plant turns out 750-pound bombs, among other munitions. The plant employs about 4,000 persons.

White was in Grand Island to speak at a meeting of the American Ordnance Association loading section artillery division.

Three Water Projects In Nebraska Are Released From 'Cutback' List

Washington (AP) — Three federal Bureau of Reclamation construction projects in Nebraska have been taken off the list of construction delayed in the fight against inflation, Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., announced.

Martin said 22 other "critical or emergency" projects in 16 other states also were released from the cutback list.

Nebraska News

The projects include Ainsworth, $15,000 for repair of canal lining; Frenchman-Cambridge, $102,000 for subsurface drain into Frenchman-Cambridge irrigation district and channel clearing on Frenchman Creek; Bostwick, $207,500 for Franklin sub-surface drains in the Nebraska Bostwick Irrigation District and related work in the Kansas district.

All are part of the Missouri River Basin of the Bureau of Reclamation.

Martin said the Ainsworth project is expected to be let in January and the Bostwick project in "the near future." He said the Frenchman-Cambridge project probably will be let this month or in November. It originally was scheduled for September.

NU Student Architects Plan 60-Mile Missouri River Study

Omaha (AP) — A group of 16 student architects from the University of Nebraska will make a detailed study of the Missouri River between Blair and Plattsmouth.

Professor Dale Gibbs said the project will indoctrinate future architects in the need for environmental planning.

It is believed that the 60-mile study will be the first complete inventory of the Missouri River's soils, geology, wildlife, water, vegetation and the effects of human factors such as industry, pollution and the urban areas.

The university took on the project when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was unable to get funds for a more detailed study of the river.

Orderly Development

Officials said in Omaha they hope the project will spur both Nebraska and Iowa to plan for the orderly development of the river.

The study was described at a meeting of the U.S. Army Omaha District Engineers Nebraska Citizens Advisory Committee.

Gibbs said: "At the moment we do not know what it will do except, perhaps, to offer guidelines for more technical experts to go even deeper."

Oakland Housing Project Approved

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., said Thursday the Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a contract in the amount of $400,570 for constructing 28 low rent housing units for the elderly in Oakland, Neb.

Computer Gives Advice: 'Go West'

Waltham, Mass. (UPI) — Horace Greeley's advice, "Go west, young man!", is still good, according to an electronic computer at Brandeis University. Prof. Wyatt Jones, urbanologist at Brandeis's Heller School of Social Science, fed a lot of data into the computer on 315 cities in the United States and asked it which cities had the best growth prospects for the 1970s.

The computer picked nine cities in Texas — Abilene, Amariilo, Corpus Christi, Lubbock, Midland, Odessa Pasadena, Tyler and Wichita Falls — as among 20 headed for "boom" times and 12 California communities among 24 which can expect "high socio-economic status."

Iowa Beef Negotiating Meet Slated

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — A negotiating session is scheduled for Nov. 5 in the two-month-old strike at Dakota City, Neb., it was announced Thursday by Dave Hart of Des Moines, vice President of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union.

Hart said the negotiation session would be attended by two federal mediators.

It will be only the second meeting between representatives of the two parties to the dispute since the strike began Aug. 24.

Hart said he would not outline union demands, but said minimum conditions would include bringing the wage scale at the Dakota City plant up to the level paid by other plants by 1970, and a start in eliminating the differential between male and female workers.

Low Wages

Hart said the Dakota City plant is 60 cents an hour below prevailing rates of beef kill employes, and $1.41 under prevailing rates for other employes.

He revealed that management of IBPs' LeMars, Iowa, plant has offered to rehire two workers whose discharge led to a walkout by union members here. But Hart said the employes had decided not to return to work until the company agrees to reopen its Mason City, Iowa, plant.

The union called the recent closing of that Iowa plant, due to management allegations of vandalism, a lockout.

Hart conceded that both the LeMars strike and the refusal of union members at Iowa Beef Packers' Fort Dodge plant to cross a picket line set up by Dakota City employes are illegal strikes, in violation of "no strike" clauses in the contract at those plants.

Offers Services

Commenting on other aspects of the Dakota City strike, Hart said he is offering Dakota County, Neb., Sheriff Allan Bligh his services as an investigator into acts of violence in that county. Hart referred to Sheriff Bligh's admission in a television interview Wednesday night that he had deputized an investigator hired by Iowa Beef Packers.

The sheriff said this hasn't compromised the neutrality of his investigation, and said he would deputize qualified union representatives, except that none have been offered.

Hart said Thursday he thinks the sheriff has more than one deputy paid by IBP.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The future of the Democratic Party offers analysts plenty on which to speculate. It offers party candidates an opportunity to fully explore the field of politics, which is what is being done by presidential aide Theodore Sorensen.

Sorensen, expected to run for the Senate from his base in New York, has called for a change in the Democratic Party. The former Nebraskan said:

"It is unfortunate that long years of power in Washington have committed many Democrats to a defense of big government, high taxes and centralized bureaucracy for their own sake. They pooh-pooh the concepts of individual involvement and community control as Republican slogans."

★

If this is what Democrats have done, it is true that they would have to change. Certainly, there are few concepts or approaches in this world that are good per se, that are valued regardless of their achievements.

All things must be judged according to the ultimate results they produce, not the purity of their concept or the logic that seems inherent in them. Thus, big government, high taxes and centralized bureaucracy would be of value only if they produced what the people want.

But what is not yet determined is what the results of these things might be. And just exactly where is it that Sorensen would like to take us? Does he advocate local government and low taxes as the answer to the nation's problems?

President Nixon won his office on a theme sounding very much like that Sorensen now talks about. But the Nixon administration is still very young. That administration has yet to prove much of anything.

For that matter, it has not yet cut the federal government down to size, so to speak, nor has it shifted much of any emphasis from federal to local levels. Taxes certainly have not gone down, although the surtax may be cut in half or even totally eliminated after January 1.

The problems of poverty, discrimination, education, employment, transportation, housing, pollution, inflation, crime and many others that bothered us when Nixon was elected are still with us today. No one expected that they would be solved by now but, by the same token, it is premature to say that there is any single approach that will provide us with solutions.

Sorensen may be correct in stating that the Democratic Party, if it intends to prosper in the future, must come forth with new social programs and must offer new leadership with new perspectives.

There isn't any question that a time of restlessness has come upon the American scene. There is a great deal of frustration throughout the land, stemming from the fact that so many social and economic problems have confronted us for so long.

It is difficult at this time to say exactly what it is that the American people want. They want less strife and turmoil but they, also, want some of the nation's problems solved.

In civil rights, for instance, there are some who think that matters have gotten out of control but who still want discrimination eliminated from our land. Some observers believe that the American people are ready for much stronger measures to solve inflation than the government has yet come up with.

Obviously, what kind of political label you use really doesn't make much difference. The party that will be successful is the party that offers the people the greatest hope of achieving their aspirations.

At this point, there is no particular approach that is either absolutely out or totally in, from the electorate's point of view. This situation may clarify itself some before the 1970 elections are completed but past history tells us that those who write off either political party are wrong in doing so.

'Crime In The Streets? How About The Corridors Of The Capitol!'

LAP Misunderstood

Since its inception here, the Lincoln Action Program (LAP) has been the subject of much criticism — some deserved — concerning its internal organization and overall effectiveness and also some unjustified abuse.

Tuesday, before the Lancaster County Board, several LAP board members took the agency to task for its efforts in helping the poverty-striken. John Shaw, representing the low-income segment, said LAP "has done nothing for the poor people of Lincoln . . . I defy anyone to come up with two names" of families which have actually been lifted out of poverty by the program.

If such critics were more observant, they could point out examples of families in Lincoln where the situation has improved to the point that they can no longer be considered to be in the poverty category — if for no other reason (and there are others) than LAP itself has provided jobs.

The problem that will always plague LAP is that poor people assume that the poverty program means direct cash assistance, which it does not. Because most low-income persons are uninformed about what LAP can and cannot do, and because they are not receiving money or tangible materials from the agency, they have concluded it is ineffective.

The purpose of the Lincoln Action Program, in simplified terms, is to organize low-income people to help themselves. Perhaps the image of the agency could stand to be improved, the quality of staff training upgraded and a new sense of direction assumed — but the people whom LAP is trying to reach should understand what it can offer before they criticize.

May Be No Answer

Concern for rural America continues but the decline which feeds that concern does not stop. People still are moving in substantial numbers from rural to metropolitan areas. The Nixon administration has established a special advisory group to come up with recommendations for dealing with the problem.

This group is operating under Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin. At its last report, indications were that the group would not come up with much of anything to change the tide of population swing from the country to the city.

Rather, what it seems to be pointing to is a way of dealing with the problem. This would include a number of special programs for meeting the needs of those who migrate into the big cities. But the migration would go on.

This week, the Agriculture Department said it would cancel a program of loans to rural areas for establishing golf courses. A lot of people may say the government had no business in the first place making loans for golf courses but the idea of the program was to help further the cultural and recreational base of rural areas, thereby helping them to attract new business and industry.

Whether the government should be in the golf course business or not, the lack of adequate recreational facilities is one of the many reasons that the rural decline continues. As the situation progresses, you have to begin to wonder if there really is any alternative. If there is, it may be too late by the time we discover what it is.

Suspending Sweig Painful To Speaker

WASHINGTON — For heartstricken House Speaker John McCormack, suspending Martin Sweig was perhaps the most painful experience of his life. This column can now report the highlights of their two-and-a-half hour confrontation.

Despite 52 years in the public spotlight, the old man leads a solitary existence. He zealously guards his privacy and shuns all social activity except for back-room poker. Few people have ever seen the interior of the modest, three, room apartment in the Hotel Washington where he and his wife have lived since 1928.

A man with few close friends, he trusted his administrative assistant above all others. Over their 25 years together, Sweig became like a son to the childless McCormack. There was a gruff but deep affection between the two.

☆ ☆ ☆

This column had quietly investigated Sweig's operations for several weeks. On Oct. 14, direct inquiries were made at the Securities and Exchange Commission and the U.S. Attorney's office in New York City about Sweig's relationship with fixer Nat Voloshen.

These developments shook the venerable speaker to his very soul. He called in Sweig for questioning. Sweig denied that he had phoned New York Parole Chairman Russell Oswald to seek a prison transfer for a notorious Mafia fixture. denied that he had intervened with the capitol architect to get more money for a Baltimore contractor for work on congressional garages, denied that he even knew convicted labor racketeer Jack McCarthy.

All these individuals allegedly paid Voloshen for federal favors that Sweig was supposed to have arranged.

Sweig acknolwedged, however, that he had set up an appointment for Parvin-Dohrmann officials with SEC Chairman Hamer Budge while the company was under SEC investigation.

The speaker showed no visible emotion.

"Now look," he said, "I want a truthful answer. Did you ever get money for helping Voloshen?"

"Never," Sweig replied.

☆ ☆ ☆

The speaker asked whether Voloshen had offered money in the form of campaign contributions. Even this would have been a breach of ethics to McCormack, who seldom has opposition and never accepts contributions. Sweig said that Voloshen had occasionally bought tickets to Democratic fund-raising events. That was all.

"Yes," said Sweig. "I made a mistake in judgment."

"You made a mistake in judgment," rasped McCormack with cold fury. "You are no longer on the payroll."

If You Can Find A Dissident In The House, Report Him At Once To The Vice President

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew, the administration's man in charge of colorful talking, was unleashed in New Orleans the other night and took the opportunity to identify the groups that are ruining America.

These, according to the vice president, are the young, certain "impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals," "professional anarchists" and "hard-core dissidents." Well, we can all spot the young, and, if only there weren't so many of them, it should be an easy jib to keep an eye on that crowd.

Impudent snobs should present no great surveillance problem either. The average impudent snob cannot hide his identity for more than five minutes across the dinner table, and if he is going about in public playing the intellectual (leather patches on his jacket elbows, frequent references to Campus, pronounced taste for cheap wines), even the Boy Scouts should find it an easy chore to track him down.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anarchists are not hard to identify, even when they are mere amateurs, and professional anarchists tend to stand out like camels on Fifth Avenue, due to their passion for getting photographed while assaulting policemen.

The problem characters on Agnew's list are those "hard-core dissidents." Most persons probably haven't the least idea of what a hard-core dissident is and Agnew's speech, so descriptive in its other passages, sheds no light at all on how to recognize this particular troublemaker.

A dissident, of course, is a person who disagrees or dissents (the Random House Dictionary.) Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, for example, disagreed so articulately with many majority opinions of the Supreme Court in his day that he came to be called "The Great Dissenter."

Someone may ask if Justice Holmes therefore falls in Agnew's category of "hard-core dissidents" who are ruining the country. The answer is no. Justice Holmes had a sturdy, muscular core — he had fought vigorously in the Civil War and even during his advancing years kept in good physical condition—but his character was such that he would never have tolerated hardness of core.

Among dissidents, cores come in three major categories. There is the infamous hard core alluded to by the vice president, the rarely mentioned spongy core, and the all too familiar, but harmless, soft core.

Biological science is still divided on the question whether core consistency is an inherited or acquired characteristic. In fact, there is no agreement among anatomists on where the core is located, and this compounds the difficulty of identifying dissidents — or for that matter, any other kind of persons — who are hard-cored.

At present, for example, Washington is debating the question whether Agnew is a hard-core, a spongy-core, or a soft-core vice president. There are even some people who say it doesn't matter and the question is silly, but it illustrates the problem we are up against in trying to identify those hard-core dissidents of whom Agnew wants us to beware.

In the absence of any guidelines from the vice president, here are some hints for distinguishing hard-core dissidents that have frequently been useful to one man, and probably to Agnew too. First of all, cultivate a fixed policy about some controversial subject. Persuade yourself of your absolute rightness.

Now, approach the subject to be tested for core consistency and enunciate your policy. Perhaps you have decided that it is essential for mankind that he have his hair cut. Say, "boy, I don't want to see you with that full suit of hair down on your scapula when I get home from work tomorrow."

☆ ☆ ☆

If the subject says, "hair is good for mankind and how I wear it is my business," the core is ready for testing. Counter with, "what I say goes around here," and wait until next evening to check results.

If you arrive home to find the hair cut, you are dealing with a soft-core dsssident. If the hair has been cut slightly and subject reminds you at dinner that one of these days you're going to be in the old-folks' home and hard-pressed for bingo money, the core is spongy. No haircut at all and a challenging policy statement ("it is irrelevant to mankind whether hair is cut or not"), and you have a hard-core dissident in the house.

Report him at once to Vice President Agnew. He may need material for his next speech.

French Group

Lincoln, Neb.

A number of us who have a warm spot in our hearts for the French language have long regretted the demise of the Lincoln Alliance Francaise.

Last May, a group of around 20 persons spent an evening conversing in French and reactions of those present were so enthusiastic that a new organization, Le Cercle Francaise De Lincoln, is being formed which will meet at intervals during the present school year.

The first meeting will be Sunday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. at the home of Prof. Robert Jochmans, chairman of the Foreign Language Department at Union College, 4801 Haven Drive.

All those who would like to spend an evening from time to time in a French atmosphere are cordially invited.

Vietnam Error

Lincoln, Neb.

In William O. Dobler's editorial of Oct. 17, he says that, "there is not a citizen in the country . . . who does not want to get out of Vietnam as soon as possible." Come now, Mr. Dobler, you should know better than that. There are hundreds of thousands, possibly millions, of Americans who would like this war to go on indefinitely, who rather fancy themselves in the role of citizens of an imperial power holding down the "lesser breeds without the law."

It is because of this numerous body of war-loving Americans that the moratorium demonstrations were necessary; for President Nixon, in the absence of any countervailing pressures, might well be expected to yield to their demands for re-escalation of the war.

But, Mr. Dobler makes another and more defensible point: he suggests that our withdrawal from Vietnam would result in further communist expansion in Southeast Asia. Not necessarily. In Vietnam, the only country in Southeast Asia where the communists have actually led the struggle for national independence from foreign colonial rule, conditions were uniquely favorable for a communist guerrilla rebellion.

In Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, there is every reason to believe that the local governments can maintain law and order in most of the territory under their military control and — if provided with military equipment and possible tactical air support from the United States — can resist incursions from North Vietnam.

But, what if North Vietnam were to launch a large-scale invasion of any or all of these countries? In that event, U.S. ground forces might have to intervene. But it would be intervention of a strictly limited nature, directed exclusively against foreign invaders, not against the people of the country we are supposed to be protecting. In short, our men would be acting as American soldiers, not Hessian gendarmes.

Thus, withdrawal from the Vietnamese morass need not preclude our defending other Southeast Asian countries against external aggression. But any country we defend most enjoy some measure of popular support and must, above all, be able to police its own rear area. That is where we made our basic error in Vietnam. Let us learn from this error and develop an intelligent and workable policy of containment. And let us also realize that the longer the Vietnamese extravaganza lasts, the more difficult it will become to mobilize support in this country for a realistic and responsible foreign policy aimed at defending and strengthening the free world.

Try Farm Life

Valparaiso, Neb.

An answer to the reader of Oct. 18th who has trouble with the pigs:

My solution would be for them to go back where they came from. Evidently they have never been on a farm before. There are others who would like to live out there and appreciate the pigs.

My boy has pigs and feeders where we live and they don't bother us. Why don't you go in and help the pigs and you'll get used to it.

Hidden Costs

Hebron, Neb.

You received my letter (Oct. 14) that the tax men had been here. I still did not understand the reason or the justice of this new ruling with the lowering of the tax basis for contractors but I figured this ended the matter.

Oct. 17 I received a letter from the Governor, in part, regretting that my letter was made public before I had an opportunity to determine all the facts. Oct. 18 I received another letter from the assistant tax commissioner thanking me for my letter to the news media concerning the personnel from the tax office visiting me—a fact he could not have known unless one of the three papers told him.

I am grateful for the tax help but all this attention is causing me to question: why this regret of publicity on such a PUBLIC issue as taxes? Am I still without all the facts and if so, why was the tax bulletin printed and why are the wholesale lawyers having so much difficulty determining the facts?

This issue is pertinent now and too many people are unaware of what is trying to be done. Does hiding the material-labor cost from the consumer and switching the sales tax on a contractor sale from a retail to a wholesale basis mean so much to the large contractor?

It is costing the state money. If we need the extra money, does it make sense to lower the basis and thus lower the tax where the contractor is involved? It dosn't make any sense or justice to me to lower it in "hidden costs" and raise it on another basis— but so few people are aware of this unless they are involved in repair and/or construction work.

Is our state government being controlled by large contractors? A lot of us are doing a lot of thinking and asking questions. HOW FREE IS AMERICA TO DO THIS ANYMORE?

Right Living

Bennet, Neb.

The moratorium gives one the impression that a number of the people of the U.S.A. finally have come to realize that our one-time military force that considered itself irresistible at last has met an immovable military power. And they ask us to retreat.

If they think that will bring true peace they are as wrong as the number of people who think fighting to the last man will bring peace.

We have been told that only one percent of our population does not believe in God. If so, then the other 99% ought to be wise enough to know what causes war and only by getting at the cause can wars be avoided or stopped. Treating the symptoms never cures the ailment.

When enough of us revolt against ourselves, we will have peace Prejudice, greed and hate make for war, brotherly love brings peace.

Right living has been found difficult and never really tried.

A Money-Maker

Phillips, Neb.

I quite agree with "Peace and Quiet" that unpleasant sounds are quite aggravating, but put it this way: I am also a farmer who raises hogs and it has always been known to my family that hogs brought in a few bucks when we needed them.

A few years ago my in-laws came to visit us. Being city people (Eugene, Ore.) the quietness, or rather the farm noises, evidently kept them awake. The following morning after they arrived Dad Elliot came down to breakfast and said, "Boy, John's cash register sure banged all night!" We all had quite a laugh. Granddad still lost sleep a few nights, but after a few days he got used to it and when they come to visit they still refer to the hog feeder as "John's cash register."

So maybe, "Peace and Quiet," you could think of your neighbor's feeder as a cash register and you will get some sleep also.

High Court Judge Upholds Order Suppressing Drug Case Evidence

By The Associated Press

Nebraska Supreme Court Judge Hale McCown has affirmed an order by Lincoln County District Judge Hugh Stuart suppressing evidence in a North Platte narcotics case.

The office of the clerk of the Supreme Court said the official ruling of McCown would be available Friday.

The case involved three New Bedford, Mass., residents: Teberio Do Couto, 18; Robert Mattos, 21, and Clair Dugas, 27, held on felony charges of possession of more than one half pound of marijuana.

The state, through Lincoln County Atty. W. R. Mullikin, had appealed Judge Stuart's order, which granted North Platte attorney Leonard P. Vyhnalek's motion that the court suppress all statements claimed to have been made by the defendants and suppress any articles taken July 24 from the car in which the three were riding.

Vyhnalek had contended the issuance of a search warrant used in the case was unconstitutional because it was based on hearsay and suspicion without statements of adequate supporting facts.

Deputy Lincoln County Sheriff William Storm had certified that he had found, among other items, a paper bag containing four to five pounds of marijuana leaves.

The warrant referred to a State Patrol communication that alleged the three had been involved in harvesting marijuana at the Maddox sand pit at Grand Island.

The three were arrested in North Platte.

Vyhnalek contended the warrant was based on information from an "unknown informant."

Sixteen Reformatory Inmates Paroled

The State Board of Paroles Thursday granted parole to all 16 inmates of the reformatory unit at the penal complex for whom hearings were held.

Granted parole, listing name, age, home, crime, county in which convicted, term and date of sentencing, were:

Robert Linden, 23, Gothenburg, breaking and entering an auto, Dawson, 1-1½ yrs., Dec. 27, 1968.

Lawrence C. Criwsell, 27, California, possession of a forged instrument, Dodge, 1-3 yrs., Oct. 25, 1968.

Terry Lee Avant, 21, Omaha, grand larceny, Douglas, 1-2 yrs., Nov. 26, 1968.

John Leslie Jones, 25, Omaha, carrying a concealed weapon, Douglas, 1-2 yrs., Nov. 29, 1968.

Sylvester Merritt, 22, Omaha, burglary and violation of bench parole, Douglas, 2-3 yrs., May 28, 1968.

Richard G Smith, 22, Omaha, issuing a no fund check, Douglas, 1-2 yrs., Nov. 26, 1968.

Dennis J. Thompson, 25, Omaha, burglary, Douglas, 1-3 yrs., Oct. 9, 1968.

James Edward Walker, 23, Omaha, burglary, Douglas, 1-2 yrs., Nov. 29, 1968.

Willie Lee Watson, 22, Omaha, larceny from person, Douglas, 1-3 yrs., Sept. 11, 1968.

Thomas Joe Shaver, 24, Grand Island, grand larceny, Hall, 1-3 yrs., Nov. 8, 1968.

Roger E. McGerr, 21, Lincoln, burglary, Lancaster, 1-3 yrs., May 29, 1968.

Tony Quintana, 20, Kearney, grand larceny, Lincoln, 1-1½ yrs., Nov. 27, 1968.

Joseph Rivera, 18, Kearney, grand larceny, Lincoln, 1-1½ yrs., Nov. 27, 1968.

James A. Wilkinson, 28, North Platte, motor vehicle homicide, Lincoln, 1-3 yrs., Aug. 28, 1968.

Jim Leigh Wilson, 21, McCook, no fund check, Red Willow, 1-1½ yrs., Dec. 13, 1968.

LaVern Anderson, 28, Hebron, insufficient fund check and violation of bench parole, Thayer, 1-3 yrs., Oct. 4, 1968.

'Start Differentiated Staffing At Building Level'—McKenna

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Differentiated staffing, a plan for redesigning the educational profession, should start at the school building level, a National Education Association official emphasized here Thursday night.

Dr. Bernard McKenna, associate secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards (TEPS) of NEA, declared that differentiated staffing should be started in a "school that's ready — not with the whole system at once."

The entire building staff should be involved in planning the design, determining the criteria for the various levels of responsibility, selecting the individuals for the job slots and participating in the experiment to see if it works, McKenna stressed.

Addressing a state TEPS commission meeting held in connection with the District I teachers' convention, McKenna said that there is no precise definition of differentiated staffing and that every model will develop differently according to the needs and desires of a local community.

The definition developed by the TEPS commission, he said, calls differentiated staffing a "plan for recruitment, preparation, induction and continuous education and re-education of staff personnel for schools to bring a much broader range of manpower to the profession than is now available."

In one differentiated staffing model he visited, six adults supervised more than 100 children in one situation. The staff members included an aide, a student teacher, a teacher intern, a non-certificated teacher assistant, a regular certificated teacher, and a team leader or master tacher.

These staff people enlisted the aid of numerous volunteers and outside resource persons to help in the teaching process, he said.

The audience of primarily Lincoln educators had a particular interest in the topic as the Board of Education last year had proposed differentiated staffing as a counter proposal to the local education association's salary schedule requests, adopting some of the same minimum pay rates.

Lincoln Education Association members had overwhelmingly rejected the proposal as salary negotiations began, but did agree to participate in a joint committee to study the feasibility of adopting the concept here.

McKenna conceded that experimentation by means of an "intervention model" in which the whole system adopted the plan at once might eventually make differentiated staffing acceptable to the staff.

Although he said that differentiated staffing would avoid the merit pay issue, the NEA officials acknowledged that problems of the program are determining the criteria for the various staff positions and deciding who will assign individuals to the slots.

'No Problem' Attitude Said Real Problem

American backs and whites must "join hands" so that tomorrow may be brighter NSEA members attending a section meeting on mental heath were told Thursday by a Negro educator from Florida A&M.

Dr. James Beck, in speaking on "Problem: No Problem," said that nationality the Mental Health Association has rated racism number one in destruction of mental health of the American child.

And the basic problem is that the "gate keepers of cities say there is no problem," Dr. Beck said.

Racism, he said, makes white and black alike do foolish things and people get caught in the system which "causes them to hate when they don't want to hate."

Dr. Beck said he was asked by a second generation Greek immigrant why the blacks don't pull themselves up by the bootstraps like the Greeks did.

"You can't rise unless society lets you, he said. "I don't care how good you are the door is shut because you happen to be black," he added.

Dr. Beck further stated that the Greeks could rise because they are white.

"When blacks act violently to the humiliation they receive, they are considered bad; however, when other groups react in a similar manner they are referred to as revolutionaries," he said.

The destiny of the white man is now tied up with the destiny of the black man, Dr. Beck said, and Americans must reconcile and make peace because "America will not stand long when we have plurality."

Los Angeles (UPI) — The killer of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons left a pair of amber-rimmed eyeglasses at the scene of the mass murder, police revealed Thursday.

Detective Lt. Robert Helder, the man in charge of the investigation, told a news conference police have been able to reconstruct from the glasses a sketchy portrait of the murderer.

He is probably a man between 20 to 40 years old. He has a small head and one of his ears is about a quarter of an inch lower than the other. He is extremely nearsighted.

Helder said there were some fingerprint smudges on the glasses, but no identifiable "ridges" investigators could use to trace their owner.

The glasses were intact, no blood was found on them and there was no hair caught the frames. Helder said th were "one of the key pieces evidence" in the murders, h he would not elaborate exc to say no murder weapo had been found.

New Mood Needed

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Winter turned the corner. A whole bunch of rain blew out of the cold north and fell on the scatter. A hundred snails came out. They began chomping down the garden.

I built a big oak fire in the fireplace. We are snugged down against snow and sleet, hail and ice.

It is popcorn and pumpkin time again. Autumn's apples and hot buttered rum.

"I think the roof is leaking," cried the Brownie leader from the kitchen.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, that is about what I'd expect. Man's home is his castle. And castles tend to spring apart at the joints.

Water, water everywhere. And most of it coming through the roof.

I said: "Put a pan under it. I'll look at it when I get through work."

☆ ☆ ☆

I work mornings in an office — sometimes called "his den." The lion at bay.

The office was built at a frightful price. But she said: "I want it to be just right. After all, it's for you."

Before that I had been working in the children's playroom. I had the typewriter set up on a play table—I had to sit on a footstool to work it, but I had it figured out.

I kept my papers in an empty beer carton.

When neighbors came by for the house tour she said: "It's just temporary. Until we build the office. You should see the plans I have for it."

☆ ☆ ☆

It took two years to build an office. "Rome wasn't built in a day," she said. "True," I said. "But Caesar didn't have to work a typewriter, keep income tax records and other things too numerous to mention."

Anyway, we got the office built.

"I don't know how we got along without it," she told the ladies on the house tour. "Do you like the colors? The white with Chinese red? And the gold vinyl floors?"

I don't know how we got along without it either. "Can I use some of your Scotch tape?" she asked putting a head through the door.

The boy came in and said: "Can I have some paper clips? We're building an airplane."

The girl came by. She said: "Could you type something for me? It's very important."

"Could we use the office for a Brownie meeting this afternoon?" asked the Brownie leader. "You have all those big scissors and things we need to make Halloween decorations."

I said: "Why don't I just move back to the playroom and the little table and the beer carton?"

"And leave your lovely office? After all I did to make it for you?" she said.

☆ ☆ ☆

I found an ad for an intercom in a magazine and I sent for it. I hooked it up between the office and kitchen.

I said: "If you want me, push the button and talk."

A few hours later I got a high screech on the intercom and a background babble.

I went to the kitchen. I said: "Don't hold the button. That just signals me. Press it for the signal. Then let go. Then talk."

She said: "These mechanical things are much too complicated for me. I'll either come in or just yell down the hall."

☆ ☆ ☆

The children learned to use the intercom. They buzzed. Then they said: "Can you hear me?"

I said: "Of course I can hear you. What do you want?"

They said to the neighbor children. "See? I told you he could hear."

The Brownie leader came in with a mop. She said. "Would you mind moving? You're scuffing up the gold vinyl floor. You really shouldn't walk on it. Except barefoot."

☆ ☆ ☆

She brought the neighbor ladies by for the house tour. "I worked and worked," she said. "I really put my heart into it."

She said to me: "We're not interrupting, are we?"

I said: "I think I'll go up on the roof for awhile and look for that leak."

If we can't tell your fortune, maybe we can give you one.

A trip to a Mobil station just might put a fortune in your future. We're giving away money in a new game called "Lucky Signs." When you visit a participating Mobil Dealer, you'll be given a little metal disc with a sign of the zodiac on the front of it. On the back of the disc there'll be a brief description of the person born under that sign.

Or maybe there won't.

That's where the cash comes in.

Because if the back of the "Lucky Sign" disc doesn't tell a fortune it's going to have the words "Instant Winner" stamped on it. That means money. Anywhere from one to a thousand dollars. And with that kind of cash floating around, your lucky sign this month just might be "MOBIL."

Metropolitan's Birthday

BY JOHN CANADAY
(C) New York Times News Service

New York — The greatest art museum in the country is reaching its 100th birthday. This is a time for it to survey its past and chart its future.

For the Metropolitan Museum in 1970, the pleasure is great because it has grown from a provincial gallery to one of the great museums of the world. But the problem of the future is also a big one, not only because the Metropolitan has the responsiblity of fulfilling its potential as an institution dedicated to the public good, but also because within the last couple of years it has been either veering off course or establishing a new course, depending on what the function of an art museum in the 20th Century should be.

This week, as a handy visual aid to anyone (for instance, a critic) who is going to have to cope with its centennial year, the Metropolitan sent out a diagrammatic chronological summary of the events it has scheduled from now until the end of 1970. It is a splendid list and, in view of some recent symptoms, suprisingly free of eccentricities.

Only one item, opening on Saturday, Oct. 19, looks, by advance reports, like a booboo on the grand scale. It is "New York Painting and Sculpture; 1940-1970," an inadequately masked declaration of the Museum's sponsorship of an esthetic-political-commercial power combine, promoted by the Museum's achilles' heel, Henry Geldzahler.

But the list then goes on to enumerate a series of exhibitions and new installations so impressive that it atones for Geldzahler's 'insmanship' and should, as well, smooth any hackles, of any color, that are still bristling from the shock of last January's "Harlem On My Mind."

The question now is not what the Metropolitan has done, but what's happening there. "What's happening" doesn't mean the centennial events, as far as decisions are concerned, the whole centennial program has already happened.

Forgetting "New York Painting and Sculpture 1940-1970" for the moment, since we must allow for the possibility of its turning out to be more than a super-conclave of an over-familiar fashionable fraternity, the Metropolitan's centennial program gives no indication that it has abandoned itself in cowardly submission to that awful current catchword, "relevant." "Harlem On My Mind" was supposed to have been "relevant." The exhibition of James Rosenquist's "F-111." (remember?) was supposed to have been "revelant." The imminent "New York, etc." is a monster of "relevance." But no one really bothers to decide relevant to what, except to something current.

"Relevant" means "bearing upon or relating to the matter in hand." In an art museum with a collection like the Metropolitan's — this matter at hand is art as the record of all the best that men have hoped for and the ways they have gone about trying to achieve it. Whether they succeeded or failed, art is the record of their goal.

Of all the exhibitions on the Metropolitan's centennial program, the star might turn out to be one (dear to Hoving's heart, incidentally, although he will never make the headlines because of it) called "The Year 1200," which by its title, must be a celebration of the emergence of Gothic humanism, a new spirit of hope, compassion, and an effort at rational inspection of man's faith and often the blind terror of the early Middle Ages. We need not make any direct parallels to our lives, but surely this human experience is "relevant." Everything man has done in his effort to understand himself is relevant to his understanding of himself now. Everything that art tells us of this struggle is relevant to our continuation of it.

But this last little bit of relevance has yet to be weeded and sifted and largely discarded. Other museums (the Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim, and, to its sorrow, the Whitney) have taken on this job. The Metropolitan alone, of all museums in this city and better than any other museum in this country or the greatest museums all over the world, has access, through its collections, to the tremendous world of the past.

When the Metropolitan occupies itself with the weed patch of the moment, it is wasting time. What is happening at the Metropolitan? When they choose Hoving's successor, what will be relevant in his ideas as to what a museum should be?

Abby: it's your home

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (I'll call her "Sue") chose to marry a man for whom nobody in our family has any use. He was in the service, went AWOL, and finally got a DISHONORABLE DISHCHARGE.

This didn't set very well with my family because our oldest daughter's husband was killed in Korea. We have a 20-year-old son who is now in Vietnam, and a 27-year-old who is home after serving two years in Vietnam where he lost a leg.

Sue made it plain that she would never set foot in our home again unless her husband is made welcome, too. Well, since we love our daughter more than we hate her husband, we agreed to accept him.

Our oldest daughter says if this terrible son-in-law walks in while SHE is there, she will walk out. I know there is no easy solution, Abby, but what should ve do to hurt the least number of people?

UP A CREEK

DEAR UP: No one. (Not even your children) should dictate whom you shall welcome into your home. If you have chosen to accept a son-in law for whom you have no use rather than to "lose" your daughter, that is your right. If your eldest daughter wishes to walk out, that's HER right.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading the letters in your column pro and con about sex education in the public schools, and I think you have given the best advice to concerned parents so far: "GO TO SCHOOL AND ASK TO SEE THE COURSES GIVEN." Too many people are willing to believe everything they hear and read.

Party Is Courtesy For Bride-Elect

A miscellaneous shower was presented to a November bride-to-be on Wednesday evening when Mrs. August Kolb and Mrs. Clyde Moon were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Moon.

The guest of honor was Miss Becky Milana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Milana, whose marriage to Michael R. Rohnert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rohnert will be solemnized at the Cathedral of the Risen Christ on Sunday, Nov. 9.

From the left are Mrs. Kolb, Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Ruth Van Horn, Mrs. Ray Prochnow, Mrs. William Burbach, Miss Debbie Baum, Mrs. Rohnert, little Miss Beth Kolb, Mrs. Milana, Miss Mary Milana, the bride-elect, (at back) Miss Sandy Mathewson, Mrs. S. E. Copple, Miss Rose Samek and Miss Kathy Milana.

Fun News In Suburbia

Though it hardly seems possible, October is nearly gone. The autumn leaves have begun to fall, and the football season is well underway. If those are not indications enough, there is the fact that a week from today will be Halloween, when the ghosts and goblins come into their own, and any non-spook who ventures out had better beware of low-flying broomsticks. Even before next Friday, however, there is a sign of the passing of the months—this Sunday we return to standard time, which means that we either turn our clocks forward or backward (if you are as confused as we are, you don't know which, either) but in any event it will change the time by an hour.

As for suburbia, there are football festivities, trips, birthdays, and guests to fill the calendar to overflowing.

A very busy four days was on the agenda recently for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams and family. Sunday, Oct. 12, was a special day for Mrs. Adam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Meade of Emmetsburg, Iowa, who observed their Golden Wedding anniversary at that particular time.

Of course, a family celebration was planned, and in order to arrive in time for all of the festivities, Mr. and Mrs. Adams and sons, Dave, Jeff, and Steve, motored to Emmetsburg on Thursday, Oct. 7. Also among the guests present at the Sunday afternoon reception which honored Mr. and Mrs. Meade, were Mr. and Mrs. Adams' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Adams; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller and daughter, Chris, of Marshalltown, Iowa; Mrs. Adams' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Meade and family of Webster City, Iowa; and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jean Meade of Des Moines.

A family celebration marked the second birthday anniversary of Miss Lynda Thompson on Tuesday, Oct. 21. Lynda, the daughter of Happy Hollow Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Thompson, has two sisters, Lisa and Lauri.

Eastridge residents Mr. and Mrs. Warren Engelhard are currently entertaining guests at their 839 Eastridge Dr. home.

Their visitors, who arrived on Saturday, Oct. 18, are Mrs. Engelhard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Elford. The Mina, S.D. residents are on their way to their winter home at Harlingen, Tex. They will be in Lincoln through Saturday.

TALK

It will be a partying weekend — let no one have any doubts about that.

But before mention is made of the numerous parties about town, there is news of a visitor in the city, a popular former resident of Lincoln whose friends will be happy to learn of her arrival. Now a resident of Portland, Ore., Mrs. R. A. Murray arrived earlier this week for a visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Thompson. Mrs. Murray plans to be in the city until after the Thanksgiving holiday

☆ ☆ ☆

It will be a Halloween party for the members of the Saturday Nite Dancing Club who will gather for dinner and an evening of dancing in the Georgian Room of the Hotel Cornhusker, Saturday evening.

Guests of the club will include Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Arden Stinger, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kirkman and Mrs. and Mrs. Ollie Splichal

Serving as co-chairmen for the evening are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Beck, who are being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Scott, Mr. and Mrs. John Hallett and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sterner

☆ ☆ ☆

New members of the faculty at the University of Nebraska will be welcomed at the first dinner-dance of the fall for the Faculty Dancing Club, which will dine and dance Saturday evening in the Terrace Room of the Hotel Lincoln

Club guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Mike Turner, Kenneth Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carr, Dr. and Mrs. T. Adrian George, Mr. and Mrs. Derek Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. James Titterington, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lauck, Mr. and Mrs. George Hanna and Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Klucas.

Dr. Jack Knodle, incidentally, is the new president of the club, and other officers are Dr. Maurice Baker, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, secretaries; and Dr. and Mrs. Terry Lavy, co-treasurers.

Joint Program For NU Student Wives

The members of the Junior Dental Auxiliary at the University of Nebraska will be hostesses at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, at the Student Union, to the members of the various student wives groups

Program speaker will be Dr. Paul Bancroft, whose topic will be, "Between Parent and Child."

Panel Sets Meeting Time

Chappell Sen. Ramey C. Whitney, chairman of the Nebraska Constitutional Revision Commission, said Thursday the Nov. 7 meeting of the commission would be held at 9 a.m. in the Supreme Court hearing room at the State Capitol.

Whitney said the purpose of the meeting would be to receive testimony from the governor, attorney general, secretary of state, commissioner of education, the Nebraska Association of County Officials and the League of Municipalities with reference to possible revisions of the State Constitution.

The commission held its first meeting this week. It was created by the 80th Legislature to recommend needed constitutional changes to the 1971 session of the Unicameral.

BRIDGE: the rebid

B. Jay Becker

BIDDING QUIZ

You are the declarer, both sides vulnerable, and have opened One Heart. Partner responds Two Notrump. What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠83 ♥AK965 ♦AJ72 ♣Q6
2. ♠QJ ♥KQ874 ♦AQ6 ♣AQ3
3. ♠Q ♥KQ93 ♦Q984 ♣AJ75
4. ♠AJ ♥AK72 ♦AQ5 ♣J964

1. Three diamonds. The bids that stand out are three notrump, three hearts and three diamonds.

It would be unwise to commit the hand to three notrump without first sounding out the possibility of playing four hearts. Hands with 5-4-2-2 distribution — especially those where the high-card values are concentrated in the two long suits — are not ideal for notrump, and an immediate notrump raise is therefore undesirable.

Of the two remaining alternatives, three diamonds is somewhat better than three hearts because it draws a more complete picture of the hand. The intention is to pass three notrump if that is what partner bids, and to go on to four hearts if partner bids three hearts over three diamonds.

2. Six notrump. This is simply a matter of arithmetic. Two notrump shows 13 to 15 points, balanced distribution and strength in the unmentioned suits. Since you have 20 points yourself, you are assured of at least 33 points, the magic number for a slam. The distribution is highly suitable for notrump and a raise to six is therefore clearly indicated.

3. Three notrump. This is not an ideal hand for notrump, since hands with singletons lend themselves better to suit play, but where the distribution is 4-4-4-1 and there is no major suit game in view, the nine-trick notrump game is generally a much safer undertaking than an eleven-trick suit game. This is especially true when the singleton is an honor card.

4. Four notrump. This has nothing to do with Blackwood — it is simply a jump raise in notrump suggesting the possibility of a slam. Partner is expected to bid again with a top-level two notrump rsponse, and to pass with a minimum.

The four notrump bid shows 18 or 19 points and a balanced hand. Since the two notrump response may be based on only 13 points, you cannot bid six single-handed but must consult partner in the matter. If partner has 15, or an attractive 14, he bids the slam. With less, he simply passes.

DAR Board

A general board meeting of Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR, will be held Friday morning, Oct. 24 at the Hotel Cornhusker. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock.

Sorority Province Meeting

Members of the Nebraska Alpha Chapter of Delta Theta Chi national cultural and philanthropic sorority, will be in Omaha this weekend to attend the Electra Province Conclave, to be held Friday through Sunday at the Hotel Fontenelle.

The conference theme will stress, "A Woman's World", and the three-day meeting will include an initiation ceremony, Saturday evening, and an installation of new province officers on Sunday to be conducted by Mrs. Richard Vestecka and Miss Norma Hansen, both of Lincoln, and both past presidents of the province.

Included among new members to be initiated will be Miss Dorothea Heckman of the Lincoln chapter, and chapter members participating in the achievement contest to be held Saturday afternoon will be Miss Hansen, Miss Agnes van Ackeren, Mrs. D. W. Baird and Mrs. Ralph Cole. The contest theme will be, "Madonnas", and the Lincoln chapter has chosen as its entry, "Our Lady of Czestochowa".

Nebraska Alpha Chapter delegates will be Miss Elfriede Muennich, chapter president, and Miss Hansen, vice president, and serving as alternates will be Miss Frances Brusnahan and Miss Margaret Evers.

Also attending from Lincoln will be Mrs. L. P. Smith, who will serve as editor of the proince publication, "The Pleiad."

House Bill Alters Urban Renewal

Washington (UPI) — The House approved Thursday a $4.9 billion housing bill that would require cities for the first time to replace each housing unit destroyed in an urban renewal project with a new home in the same area.

The bill, extending urban renewal and other housing programs for one year, was approved on a 339-9 roll call and sent to the Senate, which has passed a $6.4 billion, two-year extension of various government-insured and financed construction programs.

The Senate bill does not include the housing replacement plan for low and moderate-income families within urban renewal areas. It was adopted in a surprise move by the House on a non-record vote of 116 to 92. The plan was proposed by freshman Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Present law gives cities wide discretion to build shopping centers, city halls or office buildings within urban renewal areas. Cities must find replacement housing for each person displaced, but not necessarily within the same area.

Weicker, who received bipartsan support, said his plan would put "human renewal" into the urban renewal program. Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, one of the opponents of the plan, said it would not only upset 2,600 proposed urban renewal projects but "it will ruin, it will end the urban renewal program as we know it today."

The law now requires that when housing is built in urban renewal areas at least 20% of the units must be reserved for lower income people. The program, financed primarily with federal money, does not, however, require cities to replace housing units, although there is a requirement that they find suitable housing for the displaced.

Also put into the bill Thursday was a proposal by Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., similar to one in the Senate bill which provides mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration for mobile homes.

The Brademas plan would insure mortgages up to $10,000 repayable up to 12 years for mobile homes used as principal residences.

DR. WALLACE PETERSON

Dr. Peterson Eyes Politics

Dr. Wallace Peterson, chairman of the University of Nebraska's Department of Economics, has told the student newspaper that he will decide by January whether to seek a seat in the Senate or House next year.

"I have expressed an interest in running and other people have expressed interest in my running," Peterson told The Daily Nebraskan.

"I've been especially active in politics since 1968, and I can state without reservation that I will in some way be involved in the 1970 election campaign.

"I haven't made up my mind if I will be a candidate."

Peterson's name has often been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Peterson, 49, said a House race is also a possibility.

Historical Treatment Of Blacks 'Distorted'

A black historian from Howard University told a Sertoma Club audience Thursday that most Americans have a distorted view of American history because details of the role played by Negroes have been consistently omitted.

"I say it is a fallacious view because I believe that only total history is true history," said Arthur Cromwell, who is on a year's leave from studies at Howard.

Cromwell presently is working at the University of Nebraska on a series of seven half-hour educational television programs about the black man in the West. The project is operated through KUON-TV on a Ford Foundation grant.

He said the idea behind the project is to "erase the half-truths" that have arisen from a false concept that because black men were slaves they didn't play an important part in the development of the nation.

Cromwell said black men constituted about 40% of the U.S. armed forces in the West between 1868 and 1890.

"The Indians called them 'buffalo soldiers' because their hair was like the mane of buffaloes," he said.

There were 8,000 black cowboys in the post-Civil War days, he said.

Cromwell said the TV series will not be a parade of isolated faces and events concerning blacks, but will be a total picture of the era of the development of the West with facts on Negroes interspersed.

"It will give a new focus on the Afro-American in the West," he said. "It is a story rich in its untold value."

Italian Currency Has Metal Strip

Rome (UPI) — Tre Bank of Italy Thursday issued new 1,000-lire ($1.60) notes igned to foil counterfeiters.

The notes, bearing a portrait of Giuseppe Verdi on one side and Milan's La Scala Opera House on the other, contain a thin metal strip that makes counterfeiting hard and facilitates electronic counting of banknotes.

Wolken Kidney Fund Surpasses Goal Of $6,000

The Wolken Kidney Fund has surpassed its goal of $6,000, according to Pastor Robert O. Berthelsen, chairman of the fund.

The fund was established last July to aid Mrs. Gene Wolken of 3801 Stockwell, who underwent a kidney transplant July 30 at Colorado General Hospital in Denver.

Pastor Berthelsen said he expects the fund to total at least $7,000 in the near future. Funds beyond the $6,000 going to help the Wolkens will be used to establish a permanent program of assistance to other kidney transplant patients, he said.

Schools Urged To Stress Involvement, Relevance, Thinking

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Schools need to change their philosophy of education to involvement, relevance and thinking, a noted psychiatrist and author told some 3,000 area educators Thursday.

Dr. William Glasser of Los Angeles, Calif., declared that the current philosophy of education — which he reported to be memorization, certainty and measurement — is "defective" and "doesn't pertain well to what children need."

Glasser, opening the 1969 Nebraska State Education Association District I teacher's convention here, said that if the philosophy of education can be changed, "then most of the things we are doing will work much better."

From the first time that a child enters a school, teachers should "work hard to get that child involved in school," Glasser said. He suggested that teachers get children interested by "letting a kid know he is important. That is as easy to do as listening and talking to him."

Teach Relevance

The speaker, who serves as a consultant to Los Angeles area schools, told the Nebraska educators to "take time to teach the relevance of the curriculum."

"You can't teach on faith anymore," he declared.

And if no one can figure out why part of a curriculum is being taught, eliminate it, he added. "At least don't test and fail students on subjects that are of no use to anyone."

Thinking, Glasser asserted, is what "gets people excited," but no one has "really trusted it."

He contended that memorization is "antagonistic" to education and to thinking. "It will not solve problems of the world where there are no right answers."

Teachers should be telling and asking students "how to figure out problems. It's the process that's important."

Glasser condemned the grading system of schools, complaining that it allocates

WILLIAM GLASSER
Suggests Changes

50% of the people to fail.

"Overall it's crazy and destructive," he claimed, saying that if a student improvises, he fails. "A" students should find out for themselves how to earn the top grade from a teacher. "B" and "C" grades should be given for proficiency in courses. But if a person rates only a "D" or "F", no grades should be given, he said.

Students should not be told by the school that he has failed in a course. He should figure that out by receiving no credit.

The psychiatrist also called for elimination of the "normal curve."

The "object of education is to skew the normal curve." A teacher who says he has a class on the normal curve is saying he did not teach anything or that every person in the class learned the same amount of information, Glasser said.

Author of "Schools Without Failure," the speaker pointed out that the "only things that children learn from failing is that they are failures."

Teachers fail some children every year — from the first grade on up — then wonder why it is so difficult to teach and why kids don't learn.

"If we parade education as so important, then we have no right to fail anyone," Glasser contended. Failures recorded by schools do not allow people to "get out of their ruts." Even if a person changes his ways, his records are "held against him for life."

One Bad Decision, Already

Each week in the heat of football battles, there are bad decisions made by coaches, players and even officials, but players at San Jose State have gotten a jump on this week's race.

The San Jose players voted earlier this weak to wear various colors of armbands when they take on Wyoming Saturday in support of the 14 blacks booted from the team by Wyoming coach Lloyd Eaton before last week's game with Brigham Young.

The bad decision they made was in not voting to cancel the game in support of the cause of the 14 dismissed gridders because by the time they leave Laramie Saturday night, those armbands may be a bit tattered.

There were few bad decisions in this corner last week with a 39-10-1 mark for .790, making the season record 187-61-2 for .752. This week:

The Big Eight

NEBRASKA 28, Oklahoma State 17 . . . The Huskers' comeback continues.

MISSOURI 27, Colorado 21 . . . We're awfully tempted to pick the Buffs, but not quite.

OKLAHOMA 30, Kansas State 27 . . . The Wildcats may still be about three points and one year away from true greatness.

KANSAS 17, Iowa State 7 Only if the Jayhawks can wipe the tears from their eyes so they can see the football.

The Top Ten

OHIO STATE 47, Illinois 7 . . . With the teams most top ten members are playing this week it's just a matter of which member will score the most points and the Buckeyes will prove they're still No. 1.

TEXAS 40, Rice 7 . . . Figuring the Longhorns are only in second place by about seven points.

ARKANSAS 41, Wichita State 9 . . . Another one of those toughies on the Arkansas schedule.

UCLA 28, Stanford 14 . . . The Bruins still have Rose Bowl thoughts; Stanford's were dashed a couple of weeks ago.

SOUTHERN CAL 35, Georgia Tech 10 . The Trojans have nothing to sweat except UCLA and that comes later.

PENN STATE 30, Ohio 7 . . . There are a few teams better than Penn State this season, but they're not on the Penn State schedule.

LSU 30, Auburn 21 . . . You just don't beat the Tigers — LSU kind — at Baton Rouge.

FLORIDA 35, Vanderbilt 14 . . . Another big game for that Reaves boy.

The East

BOSTON COLLEGE over Army . . . COLGATE over Brown . . . VIRGINIA TECH over Buffalo . . . HARVARD over Dartmouth . . . VIRGINIA over Navy . . . PRINCETON over Penn . . . RUTGERS over Columbia . . . SYRACUSE over Holy Cross . . . YALE over Cornell.

The South

DAVIDSON over The Citadel . . . ALABAMA over Clemson . . . GEORGIA over Kentucky . . . NORTH CAROLINA over Wake Forest . . . NORTH CAROLINA STATE over Duke . . . WEST VIRGINIA over Pittsburgh . . . WILLIAM AND MARY over Virginia Military . . . MIAMI, FLA. over Texas Christian . . . NOTRE DAME over Tulane . . . SOUTH CAROLINA over Maryland . . . FLORIDA STATE over Mississippi State.

The Midwest

MIAMI, OHIO over Bowling Green . . . MICHIGAN STATE over Iowa . . . MICHIGAN over Minnesota . . . PURDUE over Northwestern . . . TULSA over Cincinnati . . . INDIANA over Wisconsin.

The Southwest

NORTH TEXAS STATE over Louisville . . . SMU over Texas Tech . . . TEXAS EL PASO over Brigham Young . . . TEXAS A & M over Baylor . . . MISSISSIPPI over Houston.

The Far West

AIR FORCE over Colorado State . . . WASHINGTON over Oregon . . . MEMPHIS STATE over Utah State . . . CALIFORNIA over Washington State . . . WYOMING over San Jose State . . . ARIZONA over New Mexico . . . OREGON STATE over Utah.

—PIUS X TACKLES COWBOYS—

Knights Challenge East, Rockets Visit Islanders

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Two injury-plagued crosstown rivals, East and Southeast, square off tonight at Seacrest Field. It's the final high school grid game of the weekend in the Capital City.

In other games tonight involving local squads, Northeast travels to Grand Island to tangle with the fast improving Islanders, while Pius X goes to Boys Town to face the state's No. 1 rated Class A Cowboys.

Both East and Southeast will be trying to bounce back from a loss.

Coach Frank Solich's Southeast Knights, who got off to a fast start with three straight wins, have now lost their last three in a row.

East, which also won its first three, has stumbled in two of its last three starts, and coach Lee Zentic is also hoping to find the winning combination again.

The two teams have played four common foes already this season. They both beat Hastings and Northeast. In each case Southeast won by a greater margin.

But East holds the comparative edge in the other two. Both clubs lost to Lincoln High, East by a single point, while Southeast suffered a 20-0 loss.

Grand Island is the other, against whom East registered a 33-12 triumph, while Southeast came out on the short end of a 20-8 count.

Coach Art Bauer's Rockets, which have come on strong in their last two outings, swamping Lincoln High, 33-0, and Hastings, 40-8, face a steadily improving club in Grand Island.

The Islanders have won their last four starts after dropping the opening two under new coach Orv Qualsett.

Comparative scores appear to be of little value in this one. Northeast beat Fremont, which in turn topped GI, but the Islanders claimed a 20-8 victory over Southeast, while the Rockets lost by a 19-7 count to the same club.

The biggest bombing last weekend was suffered by coach Vince Aldrich's Pius X eleven, which was smothered by Sioux City, Iowa, Heelan High, 54-6.

The Thunderbolts will be trying to atone for that showing against the best Class A team in the state. They travel to Omaha to take on coach Skip Palrang's Boys Town Cowboys, winners of six in a row.

Sooners' Mildren Only No. 2 To Huskers' Tagge

. . . SOONER SOPH SECOND IN PASSING, TOTAL OFFENSE AND PUBLICITY TO NU SOPH

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Jack Mildren began his collegiate football career at Oklahoma as perhaps the most publicized sophomore in Big Eight Conference history.

With the 1969 season half over, however, Mildren finds himself playing second fiddle to another sophomore quarterback in the Big Eight, Nebraska's Jerry Tagge leads Mildren in passing, total offense and publicity.

Tagge already has been named Big Eight back-of-the-week once, an honor Mildren has yet to claim.

None of this appears to bother Mildren or Sooner coach Chuck Fairbanks in the slightest as Oklahoma gets ready to meet this week's challenge at Manhattan, Kan., against fast-rising Kansas State.

"I don't pay much attention to who's got what statistics," Mildren said. "Whether we win is what is important. If we can win the Big Eight championship I don't care what I do personally, as long as I contribute.

"I wanted to beat Texas, naturally, but that was just another step toward our conference season. Now that we're in that, the Big Eight is the most important thing for us."

"Jack has done his job very well," Fairbanks said. "I don't know what more anyone could expect of him."

Mildren, the celebrated Abilene, Tex., product, picked Oklahoma, he says, because, "I wanted to go to a school where the academic program wasn't slighted. I think I made the right choice."

Despite Tagge's accomplishments' Mildren has given Oklahoma fans what they expected.

In directing the Sooners to a 3-1 record, he has completed 25 of 51 passes for 414 yards and three touchdowns, and carried the ball 41 times for another 184 yards. His 598 yards and 149.5 per-game average place him fourth on the Big Eight total offense table behind Tagge, Oklahoma State's Bob Cutburth and Kansas State's Lynn Dickey.

"I really haven't felt any pressure," Mildren said. "The guys on the team have been real good about the publicity I got earlier.

"Me? I've just tried to be myself."

BULLDOGS UPSET LINKS

North Platte Pass Downs LHS, 6-0

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

North Platte stunned No. 7 rated Lincoln High at Seacrest Field Thursday night with an end-around pass play. The 55-yard touchdown toss, midway through the final quarter of action, stood up for a 6-0 North Platte victory, the first for the Bulldogs over the Links since 1921.

The Platters threw a stubborn defense at coach Andy Loehr's Links, stopping the Red and Black at the North Platte 15-yard line in the first quarter, at the seven in the second period and just five yards from paydirt in the final two minutes of the struggle.

Meanwhile, North Platte was never beyond the midfield stripe in the first half of action, and with the exception of the long scoring play, was never closer than the Lincoln High 32 during the entire contest.

The play that tallied the TD was a "first time ever" according to winning coach Crump Redding. "We worked on it in practice, but had never tried it in a game before," he admitted.

Left end Bill Lauer came back around, running right, and took a handoff from quarterback Pat Adle. Though much of the Lincoln High defense came up to make the stop, Links safety man Sam Sharpe was covering halfback Dave Redding down field.

Lauer stopped and fired, but the pass appeared to be underthrown. Sharpe cut in front of Redding to knock the aerial down (or possibly try for an interception) but Redding reached over, and snatched the pigskin away.

As the Links defender momentarily stumbled, Redding turned and dashed to touchdown territory.

Despite several earlier threats, the Links had looked lifeless. But after the ensuing kickoff, Loehr's troops roared back.

Seven plays, including a 16-yard dash by Joel Adair, and a piling on penalty against North Platte, moved the ball to the Bulldogs 12-yard line.

Three blasts gained the five and on fourth down Adair swept left. Just one defender was between him and the promised land, but North Platte's Tom Harkness made a shoestring tackle at the five to stop the Links final threat with just 1:54 left.

Doane Back Leads NAIA In Statistics

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Mike Sallier of Doane College in Crete, Neb., continued to stay on top in scoring in this weeks football statistics released Thursday night by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

Sallier has scored 14 touchdowns for 84 points. He also ranks 11th in the NAIA in individual rushing, having rushed 793 yards in 173 carries for an average of 4.6 yards.

Rocco Gonnella of the University of Nebraska at Omaha placed fifth in individual total offense, having made 1,228 yards on 213 plays. Gonnella is third in individual passing, hitting 90 in 199 tries for a .452 percentage.

In team statistics involving Nebraska teams, Chadron State was third in passing offense and ninth in total offense. The Omaha Indians were fifth in passing offense and 13th in total offense.

Doane was 22nd in rushing offense, while Kearney State was 26th in rushing defense and 20th in total defense. Wayne State placed 24th in rushing defense.

New Ring Champ

Tokyo (AP) — Takao Sakurai of Tokyo, won the Orient bantamweight boxing title Thursday night by hammering out a 12-round decision over Won Suk Lee of South Korea. Sakurai, a southpaw, led from the start. Each fighter weighed 116 pounds.

Barry Sidelined By Knee Surgery

. . . OUT SIX WEEKS

By Associated Press

Rick Barry, star of the Washington Caps of American Basketball Association, will undergo surgery Friday to remove a cartilage in his left knee, the second time within a year he has had to have such an operation.

Barry expects to be out of action for at least six weeks but the 6-foot-7½, 217-pounder hopes to be playing in early January for the Caps, who last year won the ABA championship as the Oakland Oaks . . .

The Dallas Times Herald said Thursday that Jack Dolph, sports director for the Columbia Broadcasting System television network, will be the new commissioner of the American Basketball Association . . .

Defending champion Curtis Person of Memphis plays Dr. John Mercer of Sarasota, Fla., and David Goldman of Dallas goes against Joel Sheperd of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the semifinals of the 18th annual North and South seniors golf championship.

Peter Thomson, the Australian who five times has won the British Open, and Guy Wolstenholme, former Briton now an Australian citizen, shot one-under-par 71s Thursday for the lead in the first round of the Australian Open golf tournament at Sydney.

Gary Player of South Africa, seeking his fifth Australian Open, and Lee Trevino, former U.S. Open king from Dallas, had 74s . .

George "Sparky" Anderson, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, completed Thursday selection of his coaching staff with the naming of George Scherger to handle the outfielders and specialize on fundamentals of the game.

Scherger was a minor league infielder for 16 years and has been a coordinator in the Reds' farm system. He now lives in Charlotte, N.C. . .

The Buffalo Courier-Express said Thursday it had learned that Buffalo investors would make a second application for a National Hockey League franchise within two weeks.

Ortiz Faces Leite

New York (AP) — Carlos Ortiz, former lightweight champion, will meet Edmundo Leite of Brazil in a 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 21, it was announced Thursday.

Ward Plays, Offense Only

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State's two-way tackle, John Ward, will play in Saturday's Big Eight Conference football game at Nebraska, Cowboy coach Floyd Gass said after Thursday's practice.

Ward, who injured his knee against Missouri last week, will play only with the offensive unit, Gass said.

The Cowboys worked out briefly in cool weather Thursday afternoon, concentrating on specialty skills. They will practice again Friday afternoon before departing via chartered jet for Lincoln.

The game Saturday will be the 10th meeting between the two schools. The Cornhuskers have won seven of the contests, and NU ticket officials are predicting a capacity crowd of 66,000.

Coach Bob Burris and OSU's freshmen footballers left by charetred bus Thursday for the game with the Kansas State Freshmen Friday afternoon in Manhattan.

OSU GUARD . . . Fred Moore

—OSU GUARD DOESN'T THINK ABOUT IT ON FIELD—

Lack Of Size Doesn't Bother Moore

Fred Moore grins sheepishly when asked how it feels to be one of the Big Eight's smallest starting guards.

"When you think about it, it's almost scary," Oklahoma State's 5-10 offensive lineman says. "But when you're on the field, you're too busy to think."

Today Moore is a sturdy 206-pounder but can remember much lighter days.

"My senior year in high school (at Amarillo, Tex.), I was a 170-pound guard-tackle. There weren't many colleges looking for a 170-pound lineman."

Oklahoma State, however, signed Moore to a scholarship and told him to gain 30 pounds. By football time his freshman season, Moore had made the climb and quickly became one of the Cowboys' most reliable players.

"Being shorter than your opponents forces you to block differently," Moore admits. "You must take advantage of every angle on your block. For example, if I tried to stand up and block —I'd probably get run out of the stadium."

Moore has stood his ground more often than not this season. The business major has been pleasantly — but not completely — surprised by the Cowboy's early season victories.

"We have great attitude and unity on this team — in both the coaches and players. The way we came back from the Arkansas game to beat Houston, I think, has given us the feeling that we can play with anyone."

But how did the team feel trailing Texas Tech 10-0 two weeks ago?

"It sounds funny but the thought never did enter my mind that we would lose and I think the majority of the team felt the same way. You have to have confidence in yourself and we felt we could get back in that game."

The Cowboys recovered to win, 17-10.

Moore's biggest thrill came in last season's 21-17 upset of nationally-ranked Houston at the Astrodome. But this year's repeat victory over the Cougars, played in 90-degree temperatures, was gratifying in another way.

"We almost lost the big lead we built in the first half," Moore says, "because the team got tired. Houston had better depth. They played three different defensive guards against me because of the heat."

The best opposing lineman he's faced? "(Glen) Lewis of Houston," Moore replies quickly. "He's strong, quick and uses his hands real well."

He paused and smiled again. "That's the problem — almost all of the linemen in the Big Eight are like that."

NU Ready, Coach Says

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska wound up most of its preparations Thursday for Saturday's battle with Oklahoma State with a short, but spirited workout.

"We had good hustle and good spirit today," head coach Bob Devaney offered after sending his Husker squad to the showers.

"It looks like they're ready to play," he added.

Thursday's short session was followed by a scrimmage between the Commandoes, the Husker scout squad that week, and the NU frosh.

The Commandoes had designated the game as their homecoming and came through with a 22-20 victory over the frosh despite a 70-yard pass interception by freshman John Rodgers.

Devaney said he would go with the same starting lineup that has opened for the Huskers in their two previous Big Eight starts.

Nebraska will hold a brief workout this afternoon while Oklahoma State, which doesn't arrive in Lincoln until 6 o'clock tonight, will not work out.

Dad's Day Game

Saturday's game has been designated as Dad's Day and parents of the Husker gridders will be seated on the sidelines near the Husker bench.

Third In Attendance

The Nebraska-Kansas game last week drew the third largest crowd in the nation with the 66,667 being topped only by the 79,368 at Michigan State for the Michigan State-Michigan contest and the 72,443 for the Tennessee at Alabama game.

Trio Picks Huskers

Nebraska is picked over Oklahoma by all three wire service football forecasters.

Steve Snider of United Press International tabs the Huskers by six.

Will Grimsley of Associated Press calls it Nebraska 25, Oklahoma State 20, commenting, "Bob Devaney's record is tops among modern day coaches — he supplements it here."

Herschel Nissenson of AP also picks the Huskers.

NU Cagers Show Rapid Improvement

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano was wearing a smile after the first week of fall drills.

"We can really see a marked improvement in all our experienced players this year," Cipriano said.

Pressed for names Cipriano rattled off Marv Stewart, Bob Gratopp, Jim Brooks, Tom Scantlebury, Leroy Chalk and Dale Von Seggern for openers, then added:

"Compared to last year, we are far ahead. We're passing well, shooting well, and playing better defense. The thing that makes me happy is that we are doing things naturally and with ease this year and last year we had to work and strain in order to get the job done."

Cipriano is really high on his rebounding, and says without batting an eye:

"This is the strongest rebounding team since I've been at Nebraska. We've got some big guys and they'll go after the ball — we'll really be something off those boards.

The Huskers are scrimmaging every Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m., and the public can see them in action at the Coliseum.

New Orleans (AP) — Texas League president Bobby Bragan would like to manage a major league baseball club again but says there is one condition: The team would have to be in Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex.

Boxing Manager Al Weill Was Relic Of Bygone Era

. . . LET FOUR WORLD CHAMPS KNOW WHO WAS THE BOSS

The New York Times

By Arthur Daley

New York — Even his enemies admitted that Al Weill was a master of his trade and that added up to high praise from an awful lot of people. His few friends said the same, thereby making it unanimous. All were correct because Weill was a superior manipulator of fighters in his role as manager. He was a relic of a bygone era when he died the other day at the age of 75.

The lifelong dream of every boxing manager from the bare knuckle days onward was to handle one world champion. Weill had four — Joey Archibald, featherweight; Lou Ambers, lightweight; Marty Servo welterweight, and Rocky Marciano, heavyweight. Within two months, a coincidence of fate struck down Marciano, who was one of nature's noblemen, and Weill, who was not.

Although he could be as unctuous as Uriah Heep — but without Heep's show of humility — Weill was more often rude, crude and abrasive. But he was extraordinarily proficient as a manager, a genuine Mitt Machiavelli. Some called him the Artful Alsatian and the late Dean Parker, who flailed him regularly in print, referred to him as "The Vest." According to Dan, "The Vest got all the gravy."

Whenever Weill and Marciano traveled together, the manager took the fancy hotel suite and shunted the fighter to a single room down the hall. One time the champion questioned such a rooming system, mildly or course, because Rocky was a gentle and unpretentious man. Weill chopped him down.

"Without me you're nothing," said the manager to the Heavyweight Champion of the World.

There was a vague element of generic truth to the statement. Weill saw greatness in the Rockabye Baby before anyone else did, including Al's clever trainer, Charlie Goldman. In his first appraisal, Goldman thought Rocky was "hopeless" despite obvious punching power. But the gnome-like little man found the Brockton Blockbuster such a dedicated workhorse that adequate boxing skills were grafted onto that tremendous hitting strength.

Meanwhile Weill arranged matchs adroitly, bringing Rocky along with a few stiffs to implant confidence but also with slightly more experienced performers to make the task more challenging and productive. While The Rock was still in his formative stage, a New England promoter offered an exhibition match with Joe Louis for $3,000.

"Why don't you take it?" said the eager Rocky.

"Wry don't you'mind your own business?" said the brusque Weill. "When you go in with Louis, it won't be no exhibition. It will be a real fight."

Weill watched and waited. He also was the matchmaker at Madison Square Garden. Since it was illegal for a matchmaker to be a manager, the Spurner of Scruples, Weill, turned the managerial portfolio over to his step-son, Marty. Cynics asked Al if he ever gave Marty advice.

"What should I do when my son asks for advice — clam up?" said Weill, the string-puller behind the scenes.

One night Weill went to Baltimore to see Louis fight Jimmy Bivins. What struck him was that The Jolter's jab, once fired with the rapidity of a machine gun, was coming in short sporadic bursts. Immediately Al phoned Goldman and ordered him to bring Marciano to New York to begin preparations for a fight with Louis.

"Are you crazy?" said Charlie. "Rocky ain't ready yet."

"Old guys like Lois go all of a sudden," said the perceptive Weill. "If we don't get him first, someone else will. I think Rocky can make it. We must take the gamble now."

Marciano made it, all right. The shrewd Weill had made an astute judgment. The Rockabye Baby knocked out Louis in the eighth. He was on his way to the championship of the world. The grateful Rocky accepted Weill's cruel dictatorship for quite a few years and never rebelled until he became his own man near the end of his boxing career.

Weill decided when Rocky could get married and even the length of the honeymoon. The manager then cut that short so that the Rock could take a bow at a big fight in the Garden. When Marciano trained at Grossinger's, his wife and daughter remained in Brockton. For the last couple of fights, though, Rocky defied Weill and brought them to the main hotel, a few miles from his training base at the airport.

The boxing business has always been populated by connivers and Weill was a champion at that arcane art. As a manager he ranked at the top with Jack Kearns, Jimmy Johnston, Joe Jacobs and Leo P. Flynn. Incidentally, W. O. McGeehan always insisted that Flynn's middle initial stood for "Phelonious" — which may give you the idea.

Weill was a great manager but he never was a great man. Marciano was a great fighter and also a great man. They formed a successful and profitable combination although the caustic Dan Parker undoubtedly would have insisted that the Vest got most of the gravy.

Archer's 8-Under-Par 63 Leads San Francisco Open

San Francisco (AP) — Gangling George Archer, ignoring the throbbing pain of an ailing elbow, ambled through the woods and winds to an eight-under-par 63 Thursday and the first round lead in the $100,000 San Francisco Open golf tournament.

Archer, in the woods three times and victim of a 50-yard tee shot on another hole, still managed a fantastic 10 birdies on the tight, 6,677-yard, par-71 Harding Park golf course.

But big George, slump-ridden for two months and sidelined with tendonitis in the left elbow for about six weeks, still held only a one-stroke lead over veteran Dick Mayer, the 1967 U.S. Open champion who has been off the tour for a year, and non-winner Jack Montgomery, each with a 64, seven under.

The cool, overcast, slightly windy weather seemed to bother the touring pros not at all, with a wholesale assault on par. Jerry Heard, who has just finished his rookie year, and big Bob Lunn each had a 65, six under.

They were followed by Lee Elder and Mike Hill, in a group at 66.

Among the large group at 67 were Bob Goalby, Dave Hill, young John Miller and Dale Douglass. Leading money winner Frank Beard was six strokes back at 69.

Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, who won this tournament last year when it was known as the Lucky International. Each had a 70.

Archer, at 6-foot-6 the tallest man on the tour, matched two course records, his 63 and 30 on the back nine. But he described his effort as "a scrambling round.

"It's like playing dice," the Masters champion said. "This was my day. Everything came up sevens."

Starting on the back nine, he put his drive on the par-five 10th into the trees, hooked back to the fairway and wedged to within six inches for a birdie.

—ONE PERMIT LEFT—

State Turkey Season Opens Up Tomorrow

One lone turkey permit remained up for grabs as of Thursday afternoon, with the October 25 opening of the 16-day season just hours away, according to the Game Commission.

With the sale of that permit, the Game Commission will have licensed 2,000 hunters to take a turkey in 2 units of northwest Nebraska. The Round Top Unit, which corresponds generally to the Pine Ridge deer area in the extreme northwest, has 1,500 hunters eagerly waiting. The Niobrara Unit directly to the east has 499 permits.

Snow covered much of the high country in the Pine Ridge earlier in the week forcing turkeys into lowlands, and if the white stuff is still on the ground for the Saturday opener it could influence hunters' tactics in the field. In the Niobrara Unit, the outlook for the turkey hunt is favorable.

Shooting hours for the tricky birds are sunrise to sunset. The season closes on November 9.

Pressure from duck hunters has dropped somewhat since the highly successful opening day last weekend. However, weekday gunners have had fair to good success. Good numbers of most species of ducks are on hand in all areas except the southwest, where mallards are somewhat scarce.

Grouse hunters in parts of the western Sand Hills and the Panhandle have been getting in a few final licks, experiencing good success on the final days of the season. Grouse shooting ends on Friday October 31.

A breakdown of outdoor activity across the state, by district, includes:

NORTHEAST

Conservation Officer Gary Ralston of Creighton reports light duck hunting pressure but good success in Antelope County and the west half of Knox County. Ducks there include mallard, gadwall, pintail, redhead, wood duck, and teal. Hunting pressure the opening weekend has moved the birds from lowland areas to the rivers. Conditions there point to an excellent opportunity for a combination hunting-fishing trip, with the ducks overhead and walleye and sauger at the mouth of the Niobrara providing activity. Catfish are on the agenda at the Santee Area of Lewis and Clark Lake and below Lake Ericson in the Cedar River.

SAND HILLS

Duck hunting outlook appears favorable with good numbers of most species on hand. Light pressure throughout most of the area has been the rule lately, however. Turkey hunting should also be good.

PANHANDLE

Duck hunting throughout the area has been good, especially at the west end of Lake McConaughy. Pressure, however, has been light. Some geese are reported on hand in the area. Grouse hunters have been doing fairly well in some areas, though pressure has been light. A good opening of the turkey season in the Round Top Unit is expected.

SOUTHWEST

Light duck hunting pressure, but good success is reported here, with mallards rather scarce throughout the area. A good concentration of pintails is on hand in Kearney County, however. Anglers in the area report good success on catfish 16 to 18 inches in the Platte River near Lexington. Shrimp is the best bait.

SOUTHEAST

A moderate number of ducks, mostly pintail, gadwall, and mallards, is on hand in the area, and a few geese have also been spotted. Hunting success is moderate to good, with some gunners getting limits. Catfish 2 to 3 pounds are hitting shrimp near the mouth of the Little Nemaha, and bullheads are taking worms at Branched Oak Reservoir.

Eaton Sets New Policy

Laramie, Wyo. (AP) — Wyoming football coach Lloyd Eaton said Thursday his players will hereafter be permitted to join student demonstrations as long as they don't carry their causes to the playing field.

Eaton last Friday kicked 14 Negro football players off his team for joining a Black Students Alliance (BSA) protest which objected to what it termed racial policies of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon).

The action came on the eve of the game on Saturday in which Wyoming defeated Brigham Young University, 40-7, using only white players. Brigham Young is an institution of the Mormon Church. Both schools are members of the Western Athletic Conference.

The coach's announcement Thursday means the rule under which the blacks had been ousted has been changed.

At a news conference Eaton said: "We are altering the rule so it applies only to players while directly participating in team activities."

The coach aso said he is sticking by his decision to keep the backs off the team for viiolating his rule that — before it was modified — banned football players from joining any student demonstration.

Eaton said, however, the blacks may be reinstated on the team for next season.

"At the completion of the current football season, each of the blacks will have the opportunity to meet individually with the football coaches to review the opportunities of his returning to the Wyoming football program," he added.

Several blacks have said, however, they would never play for Eaton again.

Eaton said the modfication of the regulation on demonstrations came "after re-evaluating the coaching staff rule on dissent."

The Black Students Alliance has contended the rule was a violation of the civil rights of the football players, denying the players the right of free expression.

L. R. Yarbrough Sets World Record

By Associated Press

Rockingham, N.C. — Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., drove his back-up 1969 Ford to a new one-mile closed track world record 137.326 miles per hour Thursday at North Carolina Motor Speedway to gain the ninth starting spot for Sunday's American 500 stock car race.

Yarbrough, who holds six super speedway victories this year, wrecked his No. 1 car during practice Wednesday, eliminating the opportunity to earn one of the first eight starting positions.

Yarbrough's crew went to Jacksonville, Fla., where the back-up car was on display at an auto show, and in less than 16 hours the show car was running on the speedway. The Junior Johnson crew of mechanics rebuilt the car to get it ready for the record run.

Dave Marcis of Skyland, N.C., formerly of West Salem, Wis., who was bumped during the first day of qualifying Wednesday, won the 10th spot in his 1968 Dodge Daytona with an average speed of 135.995 m.p.h.

Charlie Glotzbach of Georgetown, Ind., earned the pole position for the 500-mile race Wednesday with an average speed of 136.972 m.p.h. This, too, was a short-lived record erased by Yarbrough's mark.

Richard Brickhouse of Rocky Point, N.C., nailed down the 11th position in a 1969 Dodge Daytona with a speed of 134.788. Others making the field Thursday were: Buddy Arrington, 132.132; Richard Brooks 132.132; John Sears, 130.062; James Hylton, 130.025; and Friday Hassler, 127.980.

Eight more positions will be up for grabs Friday as qualifying continues for the 40-car field. Sixteen places will be filled Saturday.

Title At Stake

Memphis, Tenn. — A word of advice to the drivers in Saturday's U.S. Auto Club race of champions: watch out for that first turn, it's a dilly.

Al Unser was on the tricky 1.7-mile Shelby County international raceway course and he had a lot to say about that first curve, which comes just over the first hill.

"What you have here is a tough track," Unser said, "Especially that first curve. I really don't know what it's going to take to make that one, maybe 20 or 40 miles per hour."

The curve, a 90-degree down and outer which many drivers said is the toughest on the USAC road circuit, is only one of nine on the rugged course. "The entire course is tight," said Unser. "I really couldn't compare it with another course. It's close, real close."

Unser ran the course in a 1969 Dodger Charger under assignment from a tire company to check wider tires for next season's USAC schedule. "It's got to the point where you either got to make a wider tire or a lighter car," a tire company spokesman said. "These big speedways are just pushing too much speed."

Unser will race in Saturday's 200-miler, but he won't be in contention for the really big prize — an overall USAC stock championship. That title undoubtedly will go to A. J. Foyt, Roger McCluskey or Don White.

Foyt currently is leading in the point standings with 3,975; White has 3,867 and McCluskey 3,864. A victory is good for 400 more, while second brings 320 and third 280.

Foyt can take the championship by finishing first or second, and will have to place at least fourth if either McCluskey or White come in second. Should either White or McCluskey win Saturday, they'd take the title — providing Foyt isn't second. If Foyt should fail to score at all — eighth or better — McCluskey or White would be in line for the championship.

Hulme The First

Riverside, Calif. (AP) — Denis Hulme, driving a McLaren Chevy, became the first driver to average more than 120 miles per hour over the Riverside International Raceway course Thursday.

Hulme made a turn of the 3.3 mile course, scene of Sunday's Times Grand Prix, in one minute 35.2 seconds or an average of 124.789 m.p.h.

The course has been re-contoured, but the previous record on a 3.275-mile layout had been 1:38.51 or 119.683 m.p.h. by Bruce McLaren of Australia, the teammate of New Zealand's Hulme.

Qualifying for the Grand Prix starts Friday.

Injuries Spike NFL Teams

. . . MEL FARR HAS KNEE SURGERY

New York (AP) — Mel Farr Spider Lockhart, Tucker Frederickson and Tommy Nobis are among the big names who will be missing this weekend in the National Football League games. All are out with injuries. Many others are on the doubtful list.

Farr, Detroit running back, underwent knee surgery after the Chicago game and will be replaced by Larry Watkins, a rookie. Nobis, Atlanta's middle linebacker, will miss his second straight game.

Lockhart, New York free safety, suffered a dislocated left shoulder and will sit out the Dallas game Monday night along with running back Frederickson who was hurt in the Pittsburgh game.

Here is the game-by-game rundown of injuries as reported by the NFL:

Atlanta (2-3) at Green Bay (3-2) - Atlanta middle linebacker Don Hansen has a stretched knee ligament and is questionable. Ron Acks is backup. Green Bay tackle Francis Peay (broken finger) and reserve tackle Dick Himes (ankle sprain) are probables.

Detroit (3-2) at Minnesota (4-1) - Farr out with Watkins to take his place. Corner back Lem Barney (charley horse) possible after missing a week and is able to punt. Bobby Williams his backup. Wide receiver Bill Malinchak (hamstring) doubtful. John Wright backup. Right safety Tom Vaughn (mild concussion) probable. Minnesota's center Mick Tingelhoff (twisted knee), defensive end Jim Marshall (bruised shoulder) and running back Bill Brown (sprained ankle) all probable.

Los Angeles (5-0) at Chicago (0-5) - Los Anglees linebacker Maxie Baughan (knee strain) possible. Jim Purnell backup. Chicago tight end Austin Denney (knee) questionable. Ray Ogden backup.

New Orleans (0-5) at Philadelphia (1-4) New Orleans' linebacker Ted Davis (ankle) and reserve defensive tackle Mike Rengel (shoulder and knee) probable. Philadelphia quarterback Norm Snead (bruised left arm), tackle Joe Carollis (knee), running back-corner back Leroy Keyes (heel), safety Nate Ramsey (shoulder), defensive end Don Hultz (thigh bruise) and defensive tackle Ernie Calloway (strained back) all probable.

ST. Louis (2-3) at Cleveland (4-1 - St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart (sore right shoulder and right index finger) doubtful. Charley Johnson to start. Cornerback Bob Atkins (hamstring) doubtful. Nate Wright backup. Linebacker Dave Meggysey (charley horse) and reserve tight end Bob Brown (charley horse) possibles. Cleveland quarterback Bill Nelsen (sore neck) and defensitive tackle Walt Johnson (bruised ribs), probables.

San Francisco (0-4-1 at Baltimore (3-2)- San Francisco quarterback John Brodie (sore right elbow) doubtful. Steve Spurrier to start. Corner back Kermit Alexander (right shoulder separation) out. John Wolff to start. Baltimore running back Perry Lee Dunn (knee) out. Running back Tom Matte (leg bruise) and tight end John Mackey (leg bruise) probables.

Washington (3-1-1) at Pittsburgh (1-4) Washington reserve guard Steve Duich (knee bursitis) questionable. Pittsburgh quarterback Dick Shiner (bruised larnyx) questionable. Kent Nix and rookie Terry Hanratty backups.

New York (3-2) at Dallas (5-0) (Monday night)- New York safety Lockhart (shoulder dislocation) out. Tom Longo or Jim Holifield to start. Running back Frederickson (chipped fracture of ankle) out. Randy Minniear to start. Defensive tackle Frank Parker (strained knee) comes back. Dallas safety Mike Gaechter (leg muscle), reserve tight end Mike Dilka (leg muscle) probables.

Epidemic Strikes Peru State Club

Peru (UPI) — Coach Joe Pelisek said Thursday his Peru State college football team was suffering an epidemic of what doctors have diagnosed as strep throat.

Pelisek said six of his starters were suffering from the ailment and one of his prime substitutes was also out. One of the men was hospitalized with a high temperature and the others were confined to bed, he said.

On the ailing list were Dennis Allison, defensive end; Mike Mulvaney, center, who is hospitalized; Dave Pickrel, defensive halfback; Tom Howell, offensive guard; Earl Johnson, defensive guard; and Stephenlong, who is not among the starters but who has been used extensively this year as a tackle.

Crime Commission To Study Police-Community Relations

The Region II Crime Commission Thursday named a committee to study police-community relations ideas, commended both police and Vietnam moratorium leaders for last week's orderly demonstration and resolved to set priorities for 1970 at the next meeting Dec. 4.

Dr. Clarence Forsberg was named chairman of the community relations committee, which will explore ideas for programs to supplement and expand present community relations programs operated by police.

Commission Chairman Tom Pansing appointed the committee after a suggestion by Dr. Forsberg that the commission look into possible ways to boost police-community relations from outside the police department, through educators or other community volunteers.

Also named to the committee were commission members Roger Larson, Mrs. Robert Beggs and Ben Goble, community relations coordinator for Lincoln police. Pansing said Goble will be an ex-officio member.

Resolution Passed

The commission passed a resolution commending area leaders of the Vietnam war moratorium and police for cooperating with each other to ensure orderliness at the Oct. 15 demonstration.

More than 4,000 persons gathered at the State Capitol for a peace vigil after a march from the University of Nebraska campus.

"It was a beautiful example of how this democracy ought to work," Pansing said, referring to the cooperation between police and demonstration planners.

Priorities

The commission agreed that priorities for the utilization of federal action funds for the coming year should be established by the regional commission at the next meeting and then presented to the State Crime Commission as recommendations.

Pansing told the commission that the state group, which controls distribution of federal funds, will probably set multiple priorities for 1970.

This year the state commission named communications as top priority and thus several good programs in other areas had to be discarded, Pansing said.

In other action, the commission approved eight applications for equipment and training that would be 60% funded by federal action money not spent this year by the state commission.

Pansing said the state commission came up with a surplus of $26,000 that must be spent or returned. He said Region II can probably acquire $15,000 of the unspent money.

Mobile Units

The applications, which must be okayed by the state commission, seek two mobile radio units for the sheriff's department, 12 walkie-talkies for Lincoln foot patrolmen, four scrambled-message radio units for Lincoln police, a two-way radio for a police van and a series of 16 training films dealing with rights of accused persons and criminal process.

Another application would provide the sheriff's and police departments a rental teletype service connected with the teletype system operated by the State Patrol. The system would also give the departments access to national teletype through the FBI service.

Two training applications would send two Lincoln policemen to Northwestern University's Traffic Institute and would help pay for tuition and travel for Lincoln Police Lt. Tom Wenig's training at the University of Southern California's juvenile delinquency control institute.

LCDA Award To City National

The City National Bank was awarded a "downtown improvement award" Thursday for its construction of a new drive-in facility at the old Rock Island Railroad Depot.

The award was presented to bank president Roland Tornblom by the Lincoln Center Development Association Improvement Committee, which plans to make a number of such awards.

In presenting the award to Tornblom, LCDA president John Campbell said he hoped that the spirit of improvement shown by the remodeling and refurbishing of the depot will serve to stimulate other businessmen to take like steps when necessary.

Cutting Tax Deductions For Home Loans Eyed

Washington (AP) — Housing Secretary George Romney suggested Thursday cutting down the income tax deduction home-owners get for interest on their mortgages "to bring home to middle-income and affluent families that they are getting a housing subsidy."

Throwing away a prepared speech dealing mainly with trends in the housing industry, Romney — obviously choosing his words carefully — said the nation's conventional housing agencies have contributed to the division between middle-income suburbia and the poor inner city.

The middle-income people who benefit from the nation's housing policy are not aware of the government's help, he said, and thus "tend to resent the idea that public money is being used — their tax money — to help the disadvantaged and the minority groups to meet their housing needs."

"Maybe we ought to repeal part of their right" to take the income deduction and earmark the extra tax money for improving inner-city slums, he said.

Romney spoke to an audience of government officials, mortgage bankers and employes of the Federal National Mortgage Association, a 30-year-old former government agency that became a private government-sponsored mortgage bank a year and a half ago and was dedicating its new building.

Fannie Mae, a FNMA is commonly known, functions by buying FHA and VA-insured home loans in the "secondary market," thus channeling money back to lenders who deal with homeowners. It appears likely to buy about $10 billion of mortgages this year, compared to $2.4 billion in 1966, another year of seriously tight credit in homebuilding.

Agencies Helpful

Fannie Mae and the other housing-assistance agencies, such as the Federal Housing Administration, have been helpful in dealing with housing problems of the past, Romney sid.

But, he said, their work "took place in a social framework that resulted in this housing being located in the suburban communities and at a time when we were going through a great population shift in this country, with the result that we now have a heavy concentration of the low and moderate-income families in our core cities and the middle-income and better-off families in the surrounding communities.

"This wasn't by design," he said, "but it happened."

Harnack Waives Arraignment In Vandalism Case

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — A 21-year-old Sioux City man, charged with arson and injury to a building in connection with vandalism at two local residences, waived formal arraignment Thursday before Municipal Judge John Hutchinson.

Roger Harnack was arrested Tuesday at a Sioux City apartment house where Nancy Nielsen, 16, Sioux City, was found shot to death. Her sister, Michaelene, 19, was in satisfactory condition after treatment for a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Harnack, presently free after posting $3,000 bond, was given until Nov. 12 to file motions. He is charged in connection with the bombing of the Gary Goodwin residence Tuesday which tore a two-foot hole in the building's foundation. He also is charged with the attempted fire bombing of the garage of the Don Bartholomew home.

Harnack, a striking worker at the Iowa Beef Packers plant at Dakota City, Neb., was arrested along with Harold Eugene Johnson, 36, of Sioux City. Johnson is charged with murder and assault with intent to commit murder in the fatal shooting of Miss Nielsen and the wounding of her sister.

Authorities said Goodwin is a supervisor at the Dakota City plant, and that the Bartholomew residence was occupied until recently by another company official.

The Great Pumpkin Is HERE!

Look out, Charlie Brown; the Great Pumpkin is already here! The pumpkin patch is near Kearney where 19-year-old Linda Marshall attends Kearney State College. Linda, shown with the 90-pound pumpkin, brought hre purchase home this week to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Marshall of 1239 Elba. The Marshalls ought to be able to treat the whole neighborhood to pie or wow every kid on the block with this one. (Star Photo)

Manufacturers Report Foreign Sales Growth

Studies undertaken at the University of Nebraska indicate that Nebraska manufacturing firms have experienced dramatic growth in foreign sales in this decade.

Figures released by the Bureau of Business Research of NU's College of Business Administration show that 22 sample firms showed total growth of 367% in the years 1960-1968.

The increases were shown in all major industrial classifications of manufactured goods, according to Mrs. Dorothy Switzer, editorial assistant of the bureau.

Expanded Employment

Bienniel surveys undertaken by the bureau since 1965 "pointed up the fact that growth in export business has been largely responsible in the past five years for expanded employment in manufacturing, the category of business and industry which is consitently accounting for much of Nebraska's rise in employment," Mrs. Switzer said.

The latest survey, taken this year, also revealed a new trend toward mergers of the state's manufacturing plants with larger corporations, indicating that the national trend toward mergers and conglomerates "has had much more statewide impact than had been fully recognized," she said.

The foreign sales of the 22 sample companies studied in the survey show a jump from $1,366,732 in 1960 to $6,382,006 in 1968 — a growth of 367%.

Fifteen of the firms showed yearly growth of from 2 to 18%, Mrs. Switzer noted.

Total export sales of the 22 firms amounted to $38,292,328, bureau surveys indicated.

Largest Growth

Related surveys also showed that the largest growth in export sales from 1964-1968 occurred in a manufacturing category including electronic equipment, chemicals and plastics, furniture and fixtures, instruments and lumber and wood products. The growth was nearly 211%.

Export of machinery ranked second with a gain of 135% and foreign sales of metal products increased by almost 102%, Mrs. Switzer said.

Mrs. Switzer said recent figures from the U.S. Commerce Dept. confirm findings of the Bureau of Business Research that show foreign sales from Nebraska are chiefly concentrated in food and food products, nonelectrical machinery and fabricated metal products.

Grain-meal products constituted the bulk of the export food and related products, she said.

Ranked Eighth

"Nebraska ranked eighth among the 50 states in percentage change of exports of manufactured products from 1963 to 1966 and 11th from 1960 to 1966, far exceeding the rate of change of the nation in both periods," she said.

"If Nebraska manufacturers one intended to have an experimental and tentative approach to overseas business, it is clear from analysis of the 1969 survey that they have now moved generally toward adoption of highly specialized methods and techniques," Mrs. Switzer said.

State Agencies To Pay Less For Newest Passenger Cars

State agencies will pay $36 less for 1970 four-door passenger cars than they paid for a comparable 1969 model.

Assistant State Purchasing Agent Les Friend said Thursday that Gateway Chrysler-Plymouth of Omaha was the apparent low bidder at $2,116.60 on a Fury III four-door sedan equipped with power brakes and steering and air conditioning.

"It was a very favorable bid," Friend said in comparision to last year's low bid on a similar 1969 model was $2,152.89.

Asked to give a reason for the lower bids this year, Friend said, "I guess they wanted the business."

He estimated that state agencies will purchase about 200 cars.

Ten other bids received ranged from $2,124 to $2.552.

Apparent low bidder on a 9-passenger Plymouth station wagon at $2,430.80 was Gotfredson Motors of Lincoln Other bids received ranged from $2,449.80 to $2,594.

Friend estimated approximately 25 station wagons will be purchased by state agencies. The bid was $57 under that a year ago for 1969 models.

Crash Victims Seeking $500,000

Omaha (UPI) — Two suits totaling half a million dollars were on file in District Court here Thursday in connection with a 1966 plane crash which killed five persons.

Seeking $250,000 each were George Cornelius and M. Howard Benton, both of Omaha. They were among three persons injured when the plane crashed near Kirksville, Mo.

The defendant in the actions is the Beech Aircraft Corp. The suits charge the engines of the Beechcraft 90 King Air failed.

Arthritis Sufferers:
Wake Up Tomorrow Morning Without All That Stiffness!

New pain formula. 50% stronger than a regular aspirin. So you take it less often. Yet so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach.

Doctors must often tell people with arthritis, and its early-morning stiffness, to take a lot of aspirin. Trouble is, many arthritis sufferers get a burning upset stomach from large doses of regular aspirin. But now comes a new formula for arthritis minor pain that (1) is so strong you can take it less often and still wake up in the morning without all the pain's stiffness and (2) is so gentle you can take it on an empty stomach. This means you get both extra medication and extra protection: Extra medication because each tablet contains 50% more pain reliever than regular or buffered aspirin tablets. Extra protection because each tablet contains two antacids and is micronized (which means the tablet particles are so fine the pain reliever is more readily absorbed). Called Arthritis Pain Formula, it was specially developed by the makers of Anacin® to give arthritis sufferers an easier, less upsetting way to wake up without all that early-morning stiffness—and enjoy hours of relief.

Stock Mart Slides To Lower Ground

New York (AP) — The stock market Thursday stumbled along its recent upward march and slid to lower ground in active trading.

An afternoon step upward helped recoup strong earlier losses.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed the day down 4.62 at 855.73. In earlier trading it had been down about 11 points.

Brokers and analysts said the drop was due to profit taking and market consolidation after the recent rise in market prices that Wednesday saw the Dow leap 13.47 points to 860.35 in the largest single day's advance in almost six months.

"It's an encouraging sign," said one broker . . ." "The market had a certain amount of catching up to do."

"There's a certain degree of investor skepticism involved here too," he said, "over recent predictions of cease-fires and withdrawals in Vietnam."

Total volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 14.78 million, compared with Wednesday's 19.32 million, which was the fourth-highest of the year.

Among the 1,608 individual issues traded on the New York exchange 787 declined, 570 advanced and 251 were unchanged.

There were 34 new highs for the year and 14 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dropped .7 to 298.4, with industrials off 2.7, utilities up .4, and rails unchanged.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was off 0.17 at 54.49. Standard and Poor's 500-stock index lost .37 to 97.46.

Trading in blocks of 10,000 or more shares slackened with 99 blocks changing hands, compared to 117 on Wednesday.

The largest block was 184,000 shares of Mead at 22 off 1. A 99,500-share block of General Instruments traded at 31 off 2⅛, and 99,300 shares of City Investing changed hands at 33⅜ off ¼.

International Telephone was the most-active stock on the New York exchange, with 264,300 shares off 1½ at 55.

The American Stock Exchange registered its first loss in 10 sessions, with the Amex price index closing off 4 cents at $28.19. In earlier trading it had been down as much as 15 cents.

Volume dropped to 5.493 million shares from 8.55 million Wednesday. Of the 1,091 individual issues traded, 542 declined, 364 advanced and 185 were unchanged.

Hog Prices Turn Mixed At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Hog prices turned mixed at Omaha Thursday as the trade kept a wary eye on the wholesale market.

Although prices on most pork cuts were generally tending higher early Thursday morning, the beef trade was only steady and cow beef declined sharply.

Around two loads of 200-220 lbs butchers drew 26.25 for the day's outside top on the Omaha market, other shipping type butchers cleared at generally 25.50-26.00 as this segment of the trade ruled steady to 25 higher.

Sows were steady, instances 25 lower at 22.25-24.00 with weights under 600 lbs.

A load of high-choice and prime 1,150 lb steers drew 28.15 with other choice lots noted at 28.00 and down.

Best heifers on offer ran to just choice grades at 26.50 or below.

Lambs were firm, a load of shorn No. 1 pelts at 29.00 and toppy wools at 28.75.

Twelve pages of wholesome colored comics, feature stories with plenty of pictures and the big entertainment section are a few reasons why nearly everyone reads the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Soybeans, Corn Futures Higher

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans and corn futures advanced from 1½ to 2½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday on mixed buying that was influenced by a number of factors.

On the advance, too, other grain futures tended to turn firm. Trade moved at only a fairly active pace.

The buying of soybean was influenced by a continuing demand for this commodity in world markets; by a government report showing that more soybean oil and soybean meal moved into consumer channels last month; and by a strong demand for products that compete with oil and meal throughout the world. The weather where soybeans are being harvested also was a factor because there was a forecast of some rain and snow that could possibly impede fieldw ork.

At the close, wheat was ¼ to ⅞ cents a bushel lower, December 1.35¾; corn was ⅜ to 1⅛ igher, December 1.19¼; oats were ¼ to ¾ higher December 61¾; rye was ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, December 1.13⅜; and soybeans were ½ to 1½ higher, November 2.45⅜.

House Supports Extension Of Capitol

Washington (UPI) — The House on a 199-165 roll call agreed Thursday that the best way to prop up the crumbling west front of the Capitol is with 4½ acres of toilets, theaters, offices, restaurants and escalators.

By that vote it rejected a contrary finding two days ago by the Senate, which decided that the Capitol's old west wall is in deplorable shape and voted $250,000 to draw up plans to restore rather than extend it.

The Senate turned down the plan to extend the building by as much as 88 feet, at once relieving the old wall of its load and the taxpayers of $45 million.

That plan, upheld by the House Thursday, calls for extending the west front and duplicating it in marble, with the resultant addition 4½ acres of floor space.

The way Thursday's vote left it, the issue will be battled out in a House-Senate conference committee, and probably once again in the House and Senate, which tend to work up some of their finest lathers in such intramural disputes.

The prevailing view at both ends of the Capitol is that the oldest part of the central west front, overlooking the mall and the Washington Monument, is about to fall down.

The more worrisome lawmakers fear that the shock waves of a passing airplane, the beat of a helicopter rotor, or even moving the previous question might be of sufficient impact to collapse the west front on the heads of the tourists.

This view already had prevailed once in the House, on a non-record vote rejecting further talk of restoration and approving instead the plan to rebuild and extend Thursday's roll call in effect directed House conferees to stand fast.

The problem is that the original Capitol building — since expanded on every side but the west — was built of poor quality sandstone by indifferent workmen with makeshift mortar. Then the British came along and set fire to the place, which didn't help much. Since then, maintenance work has been spotty.

The result is that the whole bulging place is propped up by heavy timbers. Visiting voters have to enter through a sort of fall-out shelter designed to fend off the bits and pieces of cornice and column that crash down with temperature changes.

Senate Hikes Veterans' Benefits By 46%; Veto By Nixon Predicted

Washington (AP) — The Senate unanimously approved Thursday a bill hiking veterans' education benefits by 46% but a key Republican predicted President Nixon may veto it.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware said that if the measure clears a Senate-House conference committee in its present form "the President will have no choice but to veto it and I think that veto will be sustained."

The Senate voted 77 to 0 for the bill after an administration amendment offered by Williams to cut it back to the House level was defeated by voice vote.

13% Favored

The House version would raise current benefits by 27%. The White House, fearful of feeding inflation, favored a 13% increase.

Citing inflation, Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., called on the House-Senate conferees to take a "responsible attitude" toward working out a compromise.

"I hope we won't make it necessary for the President to veto this important bill," he said.

Approach Unacceptable

"As much as I share the desire to end inflation," said Democrat Ralph Yarborough of Texas, "I can't accept an approach which cuts the heart out of veterans' health and education benefits."

"This was the cause of our inflation," said Democrat Alan Cranston of California. "To make those who have sacrificed overseas sacrifice further when they get home is totally unconscionable."

Nixon campaigned against the Senate measure in letters to Yarborough and Republican Jacob K. Javits of New York, senior members of the committee which produced it.

"As President, I have no option but to view with extreme concern the possible enactment of this measure," Nixon said.

Bruce Merrill, 81, Edgar, Is Dead

Edgar — Funeral services were held here Thursday for Bruce W. Merrill, 81, lifelong resident of Edgar.

A World War I veteran, he was a retired rural mail carrier. He was a member of the Church of the Plains, the American Legion, Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite, Royal Arch Masons and Tehama Temple of the Shrine.

Surviving are his wife, Verdie; a daughter, Mrs. Wayne (Celia) Hunter of Edgar; sons, Russell and Leland, both of Lincoln, and Robert of Denver; nine grandchildren and Robert of Denver; nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

GiganticDiamond Brings $1 Million

New York (AP) — A 69.42 carat diamond ring was sold for $1.05 million Thursday to a Fifth Avenue jeweler amid widespread speculation that its next buyer might be Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

The diamond, the third largest ever sold at auction, was bought by Parke-Bernet Galleries by Robert Kenmore, chairman of the Kenton Corp., owners of Cartier's.

A spokesman for Cartier's declined to say whether the firm had a customer for the huge gem or even to admit Cartier's had bought it.

But a Parke-Bernet spokesman said Kenmore was the top bidder.

Cyclamates Banned

London (AP) — Following the U.S. lead and similar action in European countries, Britain's Cooperative Wholesale Society, with stores all over the country, has banned the use of cyclamates in production of soft drinks.

Laymen Authorized

Portland, Maine (AP) — Pope Paul VI has authorized use of "responsible laymen" to distribute Holy Communion in Maine's Roman Catholic churches.

It looks as if we are in for another "Fender Bender" type of winter. We suggest you contact us for the best in traction tires. We have the latest in new tires, cold and hot retreads and tire studs, our retread plant has the capacity to give you the finest, for the lowest cost per tire mile. We guarantee our passenger cold retread mud & snow for 50,000 miles, twice the mileage of hot retreads. A poor traction tire can really cause a dangerous "Fender Bender" and cost 100 times more than the difference between a good & poor traction tire. 22 years of tire experience is your guarantee of safety & economy.

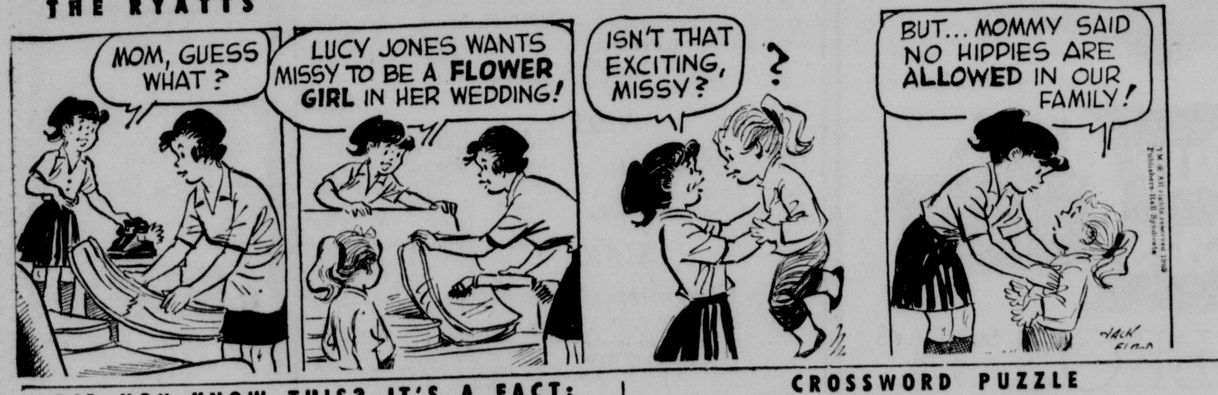
THE RYATTS



DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

New Orleans, founded in 1718, was nearly 100 years old before it became part of the United States.

☆ ☆ ☆

Farmers on the Maltese islands erect stone walls to protect their small but previous fields. Otherwise the earth would wash away in the winter rains.

☆ ☆ ☆

The state of Oklahoma derived its name from two Choctaw Indian words, Okla, "people," and humma, "red."

Six states border on Oklahoma—Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

☆ ☆ ☆

The southernmost point in the United States is South Cape, Hawaii.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Bixby Creek Bridge near Big Sur, Calif., is the highest single-span concrete arch bridge in the world.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston has 401 parishes.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 5, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
